Fire can spoil a jolly season

By WILBUR CALLAWAY

Christmas is the time to be jolly and have a good time. . . not to have to suffer the consequences of a fire, but that appears to be the fate of several Georgetown residents if the fire siren continues to blow like it has the past few days.

Fire Department Chief Les Bunte reported Thursday afternoon that four structure fires had been fought by the local firemen during the past week, along with a major grass fire. Another large grass fire that occurred later in the afternoon, keeping the fire-fighters busy.

"Luckily, no injuries have been suffered in any of the fires," Bunte says. "But in those grass fires, especially, we could have a serious situation develop. We're about seven inches behind in rainfall, there are a lot of high winds and low humidity — all the elements are present for serious fires."

BUNTE URGES local citizens to be very careful about burning brush or trash when the wind is blowing. "If you start burning something with the wind gusting about 35 miles per hour, the fire is almost certain to spread," he points out, adding, "Please hold off on burning brush until we've had some rainfall."

The first of the recent series of structure fires occurred Friday, Dec. 16, when a wall heater in the bathroom of the Kennith Murphy home at 1908 Main Street caught fire. The bathroom suffered considerable damage before the fire was extinguished.

Sunday, the Dairy Queen on Main Street caught fire when a pan of grease in the kitchen area ignited, causing a great deal of damage, estimated at close to $2,000. The popular eating place had to close down for several days while the damage was repaired and reopened late in the week.

ONE DAY LATER, a barn about four miles east of Georgetown near Weir caught fire and burned to the ground, along with some 500 bales of hay belonging to David Hanusch. Bunte said firemen were uncertain as to how the fire started.

Tuesday, a large grass fire broke out in the Oak Crest II addition off Shepherd Street and about an acre of heavy brush

GPD adds reserve officers

McGee, Armstrong, Myers, Reagan 'volunteers'

by BONNIE GARRINGTON

Law enforcement — it's not for everybody. But it is for Georgetown's 4 reserve police officers, newly graduated from the Reserve Officer's Training Course held by Cedar Park police department staff.

The 4 graduates, Charles "Chuck" McGee, Roger Armstrong, Walt Myers and Charles Reagan, were sworn in December 13, marking the end of a six-week, 70-hour training course designed to provide personnel to aid and assist regular police forces throughout Williamson and Travis counties.

All 4 graduates were recommended by the Georgetown Police Chief Travis Thomas, to take part in the course; the graduates of which are certified by the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Standards and Education.

It's been less than 2 weeks since the officers were certified, and already they've put in an impressive number of volunteer hours in their avocation.

Charles McGee knows exactly why he went into the Reserve Officer's Training Course. It goes way back to when he was a kid, when everything the police did seemed exciting. He still feels the same way now, plus the life of a police officer has an added attraction to it now: no 8-5 hours. Until recently his height made the law enforcement field out of bounds for him. He scoured police departments throughout Texas, even checked out the state DPS in 1972, and was told he was too short.

After three years of journalism, and one year of pre-med, he now has a year and a half towards his criminal justice degree, with all his law enforcement courses completed. He found a chance to work in the Georgetown Police Department the summer of 1976 as a paid patrolman and from that experience "became convinced it was the kind of life I want."

It wasn't all roses, though. He became discouraged and defensive until, along with all the negative experiences, he encountered some positive happenings, and found it "nice to meet people you could really do something for."

In the relatively short time he's been a reserve police offficer, Chuck has put in a rather astounding number of hours, even though a reserve officer is only required to work 18 hours a month to maintain certification.

Chuck finds today's police officer impressive. He says the new officer is better educated, knows more about the law, more about new methods and procedures, and says many police department's now are requiring a certain amount of college.

The next step along the way for Chuck: to apply for regular certification (about 300 hours) and continue with university until he has his criminal justice degree. But if a job offer comes along, well, he just may forget the rest of it, and do what he likes to do, full time.

Twenty years of military life hasn't left much time or opportunity for Roger Armstrong to get involved in law enforcement. But, being a person who has always been interested in police work, he made time in 1970 to take courses 5 nights a week for 18 weeks, unitl he became a certified police officer in California. Plus he's got courses in law enforcement he hasn't begun to add up. There was no opportunity to pursue the interest until recently, when he and his family moved to Georgetown and decided to settle down here. He is currently stationed at Ft. Hood but retires from the military late next year.

Why the reserve officer's training course? For Roger the emphasis is not so much obtaining a job in law enforcement — he can't predict what he'll do after he retires — but rather becoming involved in a civic type of activity.

He views his new after-hours job as chaulking up beneficial experience over and above the training course, and the function of a reserve officer as one which augments

Mondays will be holidays

Monday, December 26, and Monday, January 2, will be official Chamber of Commerce holidays here in Georgetown, with all City, County and State offices also being closed on those days.

Most merchants will remain closed here, with a few exceptions such as some of the grocery stores, service stations and fast food places, Mrs. Vivian Wood, Chamber of Commerce manager, says.

Both Monday holidays will be observed by Georgetown Post Office, by the banks, and saving and loan offices.

The Williamson County SUN will be closed Monday, December 26. Anyone wishing to leave news or advertising orders should slip them under the door Monday.

Pulling Hair

By LINDA SCARBROUGH

A big bundle of Christmas cheer to all you lovelies down in Williamson County. Wish I could somehow get home to say a personal 'hello', but it is not in the cards this year. May a light dusting of snow greet you on Christmas morning, followed by a day so sunny and warm that the kids can go swimming in the nearest pool.

I REMEMBER that it was one of the great miseries of my life that my parents never entrusted my constitution to a Christmas swim. Every year we had warm Christmases, I heard zany stories about the antics of Paul Green's friends, or Mary Ruth Queen's, and I was insanely jealous. Nothing seemed more romantic to me — except for the really remote possibility of a white Christmas (Bing was in his heyday around that time) — than having a swimming party on Christmas Day.

My snow fantasy was a little more elaborate. Whenever I heard the song, "Over the River and Through the Woods to Grandmother's House We Go," I envisioned the "woods" near Circleville — the pecan orchards nestling close to the winding road to Taylor, near the San Gabriel River.

My vision was this: one Christmas Eve, as we made our annual pilgrimage to both grandparents' homes in Taylor, these beloved "woods" would be magically blanketed with snow, and our Chevrolet would transform itself into a sleigh pulled by a team of coal-black horses. Mother, Daddy, Donna and I would be bundled up in Russian sable coats and hats, covered with seal throw rugs, and we would be laughing all the way.

It never happened. At least, it never happened in real life, although it was a stable reality in my mind. Instead, we had the following ritual. Each year, after all the presents were exchanged and turkey consumed, Daddy would drive the family back to Georgetown. But first, he would pull into the Taylor Dairy Queen, and we would all buy cones of chocolate-dipped ice cream, eat them lustily, and get ice cream all over our clothes. A Christmas Eve without a chocolate-dipped cone would have been a total disaster.

SPEAKING OF CHRISTMAS and trees, someone ought to give this season's Scrooge award to McDonald's. Seems they were awfully high-handed in their dealing with little old Georgetown. Let no one be fooled, however, into dreaming that McDonald's was entirely the party at fault. Cities can prevent these attacks against their historical and natural areas of beauty, but they must be well armed with ordinances, screening committees and vigilant citizens' groups.

This story was particularly sad to me because I have seen McDonald's drive-ins in small Connecticut and New York towns where beautiful old trees were left standing in the parking lots. I'm sure this was no accident — somebody told McD's what-to and where-for.

Fireworks can be costly

OK, kids (and adults too), if you plan to shoot off any fireworks to celebrate Christmas or New Year's, be forewarned: it is against the law to do it inside the city limits of Georgetown.

Fire Chief Les Bunte says there is a city ordinance prohibiting the shooting of fireworks of any kind inside the city limits and warns that Fire Marshal Curtis Anderson will be enforcing the ordinance.

"There is a fine of from $100 to $200 for violating this ordinance," Bunte points out, "and we certainly intend to enforce it. Fireworks are just too dangerous and can cause serious injuries or fires."

So if you've just got to shoot off some fireworks, it would be a wise idea to get outside the city limits to do it. Really, it would be a much wiser idea to save your money and forget the whole thing, but then, some people just don't do the wise thing sometimes.

Agriculture strike reduces livestock sales in county

Alvin Braun of the Georgetown Commission Co. said Friday that the number of animals sold in the last livestock auction, December 16, was lower than normal, probably because of the agriculture strike.

There are normally between 1,000 and 2,000 animals sold at the weekly auction, but only around 800 were up for sale at the December 16 auction.

ASKED if the drop in animals sold was because of the strike, Braun said the strike slowed it down some, but "it's hard to tell because things are usually slow around the holidays."

Prices have been showing a gradual increase for the last three months, said Braun.

Steer calves were selling last Friday for 40-53 cents per pound and heifers were selling for 30-39 cents per pound.

THAT'S AN increase of about 5 cents per pound in the last three months.

Braun said that cattle prices have been rising slowly for three months, so the strike, which began December 14, has shown no real effect on prices.

THERE WILL be no auctions on December 23 or 30 because of the holidays. The next regular Friday auction will be held on January 6.

FORCED RETIREMENT DISCRIMINATES

You can tell by the bumper stickers on some campers that some retirees are really enjoying it.

At least at first.

BUT HOWEVER some may adapt and adjust to retirement, not everybody wants to quit work.

And to force anybody into idleness at any age is "discrimination," isn't it?

California has become the first state to abolish forced retirement at any age.

Thirteen states have pushed back retirement age beyond 65. Alaska is trying to do away with mandatory retirement but a court challenge is delaying things there.

California is the only state so far which says nobody in either public or private employment can be forced into retirement because of the number of candles on his birthday cake.

Effective January one.

Understand, Californians will still be allowed to retire if they want to — which is as it should be.

ONE PUBLIC OPINION survey indicates that a third of all workers would like to work, at least part time, beyond age 65.

Congress is debating how much this would relieve the load on Social Security, how much it might compound unemployment, whether it would compensate for inflation or worsen it.

And during all this dollars-and-cents evaluation of the proposed legislation I have heard not one lawmaker protest the flagrant discrimination now suffered by 10 percent of our population when it is unwillingly forced into retirement.

We don't dare tell people they can't work because they are black or because they are women or because they are disabled — yet we tell able-bodied, capable, experienced senior workers they can't work because they are what used to be considered "old."

The Social Security Administration confirms that with ever improving health care most retired recipients are well enough to work. Many, because their retirement incomes have been shrunk by inflation, need to work.

YET PRESIDENT CARTER has asked no change in the age-65 retirement rule for at least another year "while its impact can be studied."

When government considers the civil rights of other minorities, it does not hem and haw. But for some inexplicable reason, the Administration is reluctant to give this minority its right to work.

I'm aware that the "joy of work" is an out-of-style philosophy right now. Nonetheless, there is evidence everywhere of Americans in their 80s who are happier — and probably healthier — remaining productive.

Retirement is not for everyone and California is to be saluted for restoring to every Californian the right to choose.

Another year passes

The year has flown fast, as anyone over sixty will confirm. Yep, they go faster as you grow older, finally they just whiz by.

AND, SO, IT'S ANOTHER CHRISTMAS and most of us have good reason to feel happy and grateful. Good reason? No, we mean reasons, the plural, meaning all those special people who have helped us along throughout the year in so many meaningful ways!

To these and all others we extend our heartiest and heartfelt expressions for a very good holiday season and much luck and happiness all through the coming year.

The old enemy

Next year we will see our old enemy return with a vengeance.

We are talking about inflation, which had been beaten to a near standstill in the past couple of years.

SURE, A LOT OF ITEMS increased in price over that period. But, you began to get the feeling that we had battled the enemy to a slow, painful assault and that if we had luck on our side, perhaps an interception or fumble recovery, we might chase him right out of the arena!

Then comes along a big increase in the minimum wage and another huge jump in social security taxes and we are on defense with the enemy ripping and snorting right down the field, promising double digit cost-of-living increases in the immediate future.

THERE SURE ISN'T MUCH that we, as individuals, can do about it except resist at the market-place. Customer heel-dragging got sugar and coffee prices reduced and can do the same on countless other items. So long as we rush in and pay the inflated prices without so much as a murmur of protest those prices will keep rising. When we dig in our heels and risk the impulse to purchase, at least there is some chance of turning things around. Of course, a nationwide effort is needed to achieve the goal. Williamson County counter resistance might start the ball to rolling but, in itself, wouldn't amount to much.

When we look ahead and see total darkness in the inflation picture, perhaps it might be helpful to look at Alaska, where prices have been quadrupled (over prices we pay in Texas), yet the state continues to do well. And, look at it this way — 95 percent of our people are doing a lot better now than they were before World War II, when people hadn't even heard about inflation, much less dined with it.

FOCUS

So you want to join the CIA

By Daniel Southerland

Washington

Despite a series of investigations of its "dirty tricks," the firing of several hundred veteran agents, and the low morale of some of its senior officials, the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency is having no trouble finding new recruits.

And, once they join up, they have a tendency to stay.

The CIA's attrition rate, or what might better be called its dropout rate, is only half that of the rest of the government according to agency officials.

"People find the work stimulating, interesting, and challenging," says Dow Luetscher, the CIA's deputy director of personnel for recruitment and placement.

Mr. Luetscher spoke to this reporter at an office in Rosslyn, Virginia, which commands a view of the Memorial Bridge linking Virginia with Washington, D.C. This is one of the places where people can drop in to find out about jobs with the CIA.

The CIA has other recruiting offices in nine locations throughout the United States. It also advertises its job opportunities in newspapers and in the College Placement Annual.

The agency produces slick brochures to explain its intelligence gathering mission. One of them, which promotes clerical jobs in the CIA, shows pictures of wholesome looking young women cheerfully setting forth on their new careers with the CIA. It says:

"You're interested in current events, history, foreign countries, travel. You're over 17½, a U.S. citizen, and a high school graduate. Chances are the Central Intelligence Agency is the place for you."

But, according to the bespectacled Mr. Luetscher, who was tapped by a CIA recruiter as a law student at the University of Wisconsin 26 years ago, the agency is making a special effort to recruit women and members of minority groups not just for clerical tasks but also for its more prestigious technical and professional jobs.

A total of 14 percent of those hired for such jobs in the fiscal year 1977 were from minority racial and ethnic groups. Twenty of the new recruits were women. These figures, Mr. Luetscher added, represent increases of more than 50 percent in each category over those of the previous year.

One of the CIA's ads notes that the "competition is very keen for positions in the agency," and so it is. Mr. Luetscher said that for the fiscal year 1977, the CIA received 37,000 written inquiries for only 1,000 job openings. Recruiters interviewed 12,500 of those who wrote in, but hired only 400 in the technical and professional fields and 600 for clerical jobs.

The intense screening process which they went through required submission of a 17-page personal history and testing by a polygraph, or lie detector.

Of those joining the agency in professional positions in the fiscal year 1976, 12 percent had doctoral decrees, 25 percent had master's degrees, and 56 percent had bachelor's degrees. The figures for the fiscal year 1977 have not yet been compiled but the quality of education which they reveal is thought likely to be equally as high. Many of the new recruits have also had some previous job experience.

"We usually look for something extra beyond a BA degree," said Mr. Luetscher. "We've had to turn away thousands of BAs summa cum laude, magna cum laude."

"But there are some areas where we have to work hard to get people: electrical engineers, science and technology experts with five to 10 years experience, graduate level economists, mathematicians, physical scientists, photo-interpreters, and language specialists – in the hard languages."

According to Mr. Luetscher, press publicity, whether good or bad, has stimulated the interest of some people in jobs with the CIA.

"When the congressional investigations started, we were surprised and delighted to find that the number of people applying for jobs actually increased," the CIA official said. "The negative publicity has simply not turned off a lot of people – especially those interested in foreign affairs."

He added, however, that economic conditions were a major reason for the large number of job applicants.

"Everybody who is an employer is in a buyer's market," he said.

And that apparently includes the CIA.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Paul Alexander not only has crazy ideas about uniforms, but he also has crazy ideas about college football.

I mean, calling Bear Bryant cantankerous? That's saying he is like Woody Woodpecker Hayes? Has Bear ever hit a cameraman, thrown down a telephone, walked on the field and argued, or been fined? True, he does argue about a call, but referees aren't perfect. And he seldom argues anyway.

Come on now! You have to give Washington a little credit. They DID get into the Rose Bowl! And just ask a Michigan fan who Minnesota is. Michigan CAN get beat. I do think Michigan will win, but by 83 points?

Don't get me wrong on this one. I do like Texas, but Notre Dame is no pushover. I do want Texas to win, but Notre Dame players won a few awards too. I believe Texas can beat them but even big Texas fans say it will be close. Closer than 14 points anyway!

While we're on points, I'll

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

By Bill Kidd

AUSTIN — What do folks who make our laws
Want from good old Santa Claus?
Let us go and take a look
Into Santa's Christmas book.
Here's a box for Dolph Briscoe!
What is in it? Ho, ho, ho!
Brand new highways, no tax bills
And polls still better than John Hill's.
What's that, John? Yes, Santa knows,
But he's just got one of those.
A governor's spot, it would appear,
Is hard to get in any year.
But hold on, John, and just remember,
Your Christmas might come next November.
Price Daniel, Jr., and Mark White
Know Santa frowns on boys who fight,
But since it's a political cause,
They get a wink from Mr. Claus.
Bill Clements and Ray Hutchison
Get new shoes with which to run.
Santa loves Republicans, too,
But has no miracles for you.
For Comptroller Bullock, that jolly old elf,
Santa has outdone himself:
New desk, new chair and new ashtray,
And a new department head each day.
Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby
Seems quite happy with his job. He Gets to keep it. In a primary scramble
Hobby will run as well as Earl Campbell.
Speaker Bill Clayton wants to go
For Speaker three times in a row.
Buddy Temple thinks that's piggish,
But Santa gives Billy a lead that's biggish.
Senior Sen. John Tower
Wants to stay a Potomac power.
Bob Krueger and Joe Christie say
They don't think that he should stay.
Look at Joe and Bobby glower!
Santa's big box goes to Tower.
Reagan Brown and Warren Harding
Both have jobs which they are guarding.
Warren wants more funds for the Treasury;
Higher farm prices make Reagan feel pleasury.
What's in the Railroad Commission stock? Ah,
It's a refund from Lo-Vaca!
Now we know we must be dreaming!
Hear the way Lo-Vaca's screaming?
But we won't let that appall us;
Thanks, Jon Newton and Mack Wallace.
Santa Claus regrets, alas,
He cannot deregulate gas.
To other folks in other races:
Santa sees your eager faces,
And knows for each of you year'ns—
He wishes you many happy returns.
Merry Christmas.

STATE Capital NEWS

AUSTIN—Texas Republicans are boasting of victories in back-to-back special legislative vacancy elections and see further gains in 1978.

Meanwhile, two more potential statewide GOP candidates appeared about ready to emerge.

James A. Baker III of Houston indicated likelihood of his running for attorney general is increasing, and former State Sen. Henry Grover of Houston said he will decide next month whether to make a statewide race—probably for governor.

Former State GOP Chairman Ray Hutchison of Dallas and former Deputy U.S. Defense Secretary William Clements, also of Dallas, already are in the governor's race.

Republicans took new encouragement from the victories of Dr. S. L. Abbott of El Paso for a vacant state House of Representatives seat, and former U.S. Rep. Bob Price of Pampa for the 31st (Panhandle) district Senate seat. Price is the first Republican to hold the district seat.

State GOP Chairman Ray Barnhart said the Price and Abbott triumphs show a "significant upsurge in Republican strength throughout the state.

The view was shared by Associated Republicans of Texas (ART) Chairman Julian Zimmerman of Austin, who helped raise funds for the Abbott and Price campaigns.

"I'm convinced these Republican victories reflect a favorable political climate that will become even better for our candidates in 1978," said Zimmerman.

Brown Issues Warning

Proposed federal rules allowing eight variances on meat packages could play "regulation roulette" with consumers' food dollars, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown warned.

Brown said the regulations proposed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture allow tolerances due to moisture loss between the point of packaging meats and the checkout stand where they are sold.

Prior to a Supreme Court decision last summer, Texas Department of Agriculture weights and measures personnel had monitored concise regulations which required a meat packer to allow for moisture loss, guaranteeing consumers the product they bought contained the amount stated on the label.

The court ruled a state cannot establish more stringent weight labeling standards than those created by the federal government—which were far less stringent than Texas standards, Brown said. Brown claimed allowing any variances at all is not fair to consumers.

Sales Taxes Roll In

About 890 Texas cities will receive sales tax rebate checks totalling $53.8 million this month.

The December checks total $3.2 million more than those for 1976, and bring the year's total to $361.6 million—a 19.4 per cent increase over calendar year 1976. Comptroller Bob Bullock said 1977 was a banner year for merchants, and the coming year will be as good or better. Eight cities got sales tax checks totaling $1 million or more for the month.

Special Elections Set

Gov. Dolph Briscoe set two more special legislative vacancy elections for February 18.

One is to pick a replacement for Sen. Don Adams of Jasper in District 3, the other to fill the unexpired term of Rep. Roy Blake of Nacogdoches (House district 4) who is running for Adams' seat.

Courts Speak

A Dallas man sentenced to life imprisonment in a robbery won a new trial when the Court of Criminal Appeals held the trial judge should have required prosecutors to identify a confidential informer.

Survivors of accidents are not protected against loss of income benefits by personal injury riders on insurance policies, the Supreme Court held.

A Deaf Smith County man will get a new trial on statutory rape charges (due to a faulty job of trial language interpretation) after serving eight years in prison.

A Dallas auction gallery can collect $50,523 in insurance due to a burglary of antiques, the high court agreed, upholding lower courts.

A divided Court of Criminal Appeals upheld a driving while intoxicated conviction of a Houston man who protested he had been forced to drive by a punch in the mouth and a threat at a bar.

A man who failed to pay child support payments under court order lost an appeal from a contempt conviction, but the Third Court of Civil Appeals said the State Supreme Court should determine whether he was entitled to a lawyer.

Attorney General Opinions

A county can utilize misdemeanor convict labor on public improvements without establishing a workhouse or county farm, Attorney General John Hill said.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

The State Board of Professional Engineers is authorized to regulate and restrict the use of the word engineer and its variations in academic titles.

A recent change in the education code is not applicable to Montgomery County which supports county school offices with revenue generated by property tax revenue.

State employees who sustain a permanent specific injury entitling them to workmen's compensation benefits should receive the compensation without deduction for accrued sick leave used.

Short Snorts

A new schedule of vital statistics fees, including a $3 charge for certified copies of birth or death certificates, become effective January 1.

The State Highway and Public Transportation Commission has approved preparation of preliminary studies and plans for a Highway Tourist Bureau for the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Chances grow unusual plant

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Chance of 1610 Pecan have this thing about unusual plants.

They've got a garage-full of different types of plants, as well as several planted around their yard.

But one of the most unusual ones is a tetarapanax papyriferus, also known as a rice paper ppant. This sub-tropical plant is commonly grown on the island of Formosa in the South China Sea.

Although the rice plant in the Chance yard is only about six feet high, Mrs. Chance says it grows to be much larger in Formosa. Of course, Formosa has a winter temperature which rarely gets below 60-65 degrees, somewhat unlike the temperatures in Texas this time of year.

"We try to grow crazy things," Mrs. Chance admits, "and this is the first time in four years our rice paper plant has been in full bloom. And it will probably be gone after this cold weather we're having this week."

The Chances planted the unusual plant behind a brick screen to protect it from the cold wind, but the sub-freezing temperatures of this week may be too much for it.

IN FULL BLOOM — Mrs. C. L. Chance proudly shows off her rice paper plant, an unusual sub-tropical plant which is currently in full bloom in her front yard. The plant is common in Formosa, but certainly not in Texas.

The plant is covered with a white, felt-like substance and filled with white pith, which is used to make paper and wood in Formosa.

YET A FEW DAYS and the all-beholding 1977 shall see no more in all its course. Soon we'll be rubbing off or scratching out the 1977 to put the baby 1978 in its place. Although 1977 was and is a good year, we always want the next one to be just little better. "You just wait, next year." And if we work it right and learn from 1977 mistakes, it will be better. The beautiful thing about this is that it will be what we make it.

You know, about these long holidays, I always shudder thinking about the highway carnage even before it is announced. And that too is what we make it. If everybody drove 55 mph on highways and 30 mph in city there wouldn't be much excuse for accidents. At 55 you don't lose control of your car and wind up in a ditch or against a lamp post and you have a better chance to dodge the fool coming against you in your lane. Same in a city, at 30 you can always do little maneuvering or stop on a dime if you have to. There, of course, are genuine accidents, too, but most of them are manmade.

IT IS INTERESTING to read about the different customs in different countries, of celebrating Christmas. My parents came from Austria, now Czechoslovakia, and there wasn't any Santa Claus there. We as children got our goodies on Christmas Eve from the Christ Child, or Ježišek (in Czech) which is diminutive of the word Jesus. He'd leave a large tub of fruit, nuts and candy and rang a bell to come and get it. There were seven of us and we always had some trouble getting through the door at the same time. There were several of those beautiful Christmases, that is, until two of us oldest brothers got "smart" and noted that Ježišek was using the same bell that we called in the cotton pickers to lunch. We were proud to be "big and know everything" now, and didn't tell the younger "kids" anything. SEE you at the next rising of the Sunday Sun.

HINTS ON HEARTY HOLIDAY HAM

GLAZED HAM LOAF is delicious and nutritious. Ham is high in many essential nutrients, yet lower in calories than many other meats.

You can give your family a taste-tempter this holiday season by serving this festive, delicious ham dish.

by serving this festive, delicious ham dish.

Though it's not a native American food—the Spanish explorer Hernando de Soto brought the first pigs to Florida in 1542—ham has long been a favorite here. In fact, the average American eats about 70 pounds of ham and other pork products each year.

This Hearty Holiday Glazed Ham Loaf is a sure-fire people-pleaser.

HEARTY HOLIDAY GLAZED HAM LOAF

2 1/2 pounds ground canned ham
2 eggs
1 cup cracker crumbs
2/3 cup milk
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 recipe glaze

Mix together ham, eggs, cracker crumbs, milk and pepper. Shape into loaf and place in baking pan. Bake in a 300°F. oven for about one hour, basting occasionally with glaze. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Glaze: Stir together 3/4 cup dark corn syrup, 1/3 cup vinegar and 2 teaspoons dry mustard in a small saucepan. Stirring occasionally, bring to boil and boil two minutes.

Sutter leaves Poage, joins Olson campaign

State Representative Lyndon Olson, Jr., Democratic candidate for Congress from the 11th Congressional District, which includes Williamson County, has announced that John Ben Sutter, press aide to U. S. Representative W. R. Bob Poage, has resigned from that position to participate in Olson's Congressional campaign.

Sutter, a native of Cameron and graduate of Baylor University in Waco, will be Communications Director for the Olson for Congress Committee. His duties include supervision of scheduling and research along with serving as liason to the news and information media.

Before joining Congressman Poage's Washington staff, Sutter was a news and weather reporter for KCEN-TV in Temple and Waco. His experience in journalism and broadcasting spans more than seven years. An honor graduate of C. H. Yoe High School in Cameron, Sutter holds a degree in radio-television journalism from Baylor University and is completing a masters degree in political science at Baylor. He was named to the ranks of the Outstanding Young Men of America for 1977.

"John Ben's valuable experience with Mr. Poage and his extensive background in the news business are excellent credentials," Olson said. "I am pleased to have him returning home to Texas from Washington to assist in my Congressional bid."

Sutter said, "My work with Congressman Poage as press assistant has taught me that an open line must be maintained between the people and their representatives to government. People want to know honestly about a representative and want access to him.

"I'm proud to be associated with Lyndon Olson. His proven credentials as an open, effective and constructive leader in the Texas House of Representatives over the past six years point to what kind of Congressman he will be," Sutter said.

"I hope to help inform the people of the 11th District about Lyndon Olson. I think they'll be impressed," he said.

About his tenure with retiring Congressman Poage, Sutter said, "He taught me that the country works best when government lets people at home direct their own business."

have you know the odds-makers in Las Vegas rate the Sugar Bowl game even and some say Alabama by one. None of them favor Ohio State, especially by ten. I've compared their picks with Alexander's. They're usually closer.

What game is he watching? Certainly not college football. Or if he is watching college football, did he pick them by their uniforms? After all, he did say something to the effect of "Sharp uniforms key to winning." Famous last words.

It's been nice chit-chatting with you. Bye, bye!

FIRE VICTIMS — Two Georgetown homes which were damaged during the past week by fires are shown in the pictures above. At left is the home of Mrs. Mable Davis at 105 W. Valley, which was gutted by flames late Wednesday night after faulty wiring from a television set started the fire. Mrs. Davis was able to save some of her personal belongings, due to the quick action of the Georgetown Fire Department, but the house was a total loss. At right is the home of Kennith Murphy at 1908 Main, which had considerable damage to a bathroom last Friday when a wall heater in the bathroom caught fire. The local firemen were able to keep the flames from spreading and managed to save the rest of the house. (Photos by Wilbur Callaway)

Time to control cattle lice

Lice cost U.S. cattlemen more than $50 million annually, so it's important to control them, says an entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dr. Carl D. Patrick of Amarillo notes that lice begin to reproduce rapidly with the onset of cool weather, so peak populations on cattle occur in late winter and early spring. Uncontrolled lice can soon infest a whole herd because with cold weather, cattle tend to bunch up more so that the pests can move easily from one animal to another. Heavy hair coats on animals during cold weather also afford protection for the parasites and allow for increased reproduction.

Both types of lice — blood-sucking and biting — infest cattle. Sucking lice pierce the animal's skin and suck blood while biting lice feed on particles of hair, scale, scab and skin exudation, explains the entomologist.

Lice infestations irritate animals, causing itching, scratching and rubbing on fences or anything else available. This produces denuded areas, bruises and lacerations on the affected animal. Heavily infested animals will have an unthrifty appearance and will suffer weight reduction, decreased milk production, anemia or even death. Lice infested animals may also be more subject to infectious diseases. Heavy lice infestations often stunt calves.

Spraying or dipping infested animals with the proper insecticide is the most effective means of controlling lice, says Patrick. However, properly placed and maintained dust bags offer effective control and save both time and labor. Position dust bags prior to lice buildup so that cattle can become accustomed to using the bags.

A dust bag station should serve about 30 head. Depending on cattle size, place the bags so that they hang 18-24 inches above the ground. Forced-use of dust bags, where they are placed so that cattle must pass under them to get feed or water, begin to control lice sooner than those used free-choice. By allowing a two-to-three week adjustment period, free-choice bags can be about as effective as forced-use types.

In a spraying or dipping program an animal must receive a thorough soaking in each of two applications 14-18 days apart to effectively control lice, contends Patrick. The second spray or dip will kill any lice hatching from eggs that were laid prior to the first spraying. When spraying, use a high pressure (250 pounds per square inch) and thoroughly wet animals to the skin.

For a list of effective insecticides for controlling lice, the entomologist suggests that cattlemen obtain a copy of "Suggestions for Controlling External Parasites on Livestock and Poultry" available at any county Extension Office.

Check the label on the insecticide container and pay particular attention to warnings, restrictions and waiting periods, especially if some of the cattle are being prepared for slaughter, cautions Patrick.

Game warden applications being taken

Persons interested in becoming Texas Parks and Wildlife Department game wardens may submit applications during January and February, 1978, to the department, an equal opportunity employer, for the 33rd game warden school next fall.

Deadline for receiving applications will be Feb. 28, 1978. The application forms are available from department regional or district offices or from headquarters, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin 78744.

Oral interviews will be held in various regions of the state during April. In July, a selected number of applicants from each region will be intereviewed in Austin before the final selection is made.

No definite date has been set for the school, but it will convene in the fall of 1978.

Versatile winter squash

COLLEGE STATION — Versatile winter squash adds a nutritious highlight to menus — especially during cold-weather months when it is abundant with appealing prices, says Marilyn Haggard, a foods and nutrition specialist.

SQUASH APPEAL STARTS WITH VITAMINS A, C

Acorn squash and butternut squash are economical sources of Vitamins A and C, and both vitamins have important jobs, the specialist says.

Vitamin A is necessary for vision, and it influences tooth development.

Vitamin C is not stored in the body, so it is necessary to eat food with Vitamin C everyday — to keep tissues, such as gums, healthy and to help the body resist infection.

Miss Haggard is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

FRESHNESS — KEY TO QUALITY BUYING

In buying winter squash, the specialist says look for an even color and a very firm surface.

Acorn squash starts turning yellow or orange as it ages — so look for a solid green exterior to assure freshness and high quality.

Store squash in a cool, dry place. Refrigeration is not necessary.

TWO-STEP PREPARATION EASY

Preparing winter squash is easy — but acorn squash needs caution in cutting, Miss Haggard says.

When splitting the squash to remove the seeds, make certain that fingers and hands are away from the knife blade.

Since the flesh and outer covering of acorn squash is very hard, a heavy pressure must be exerted to cut through the squash, so cutting care is important.

To prepare butternut squash, simply peel it and dice it.

SQUASH COOKS IN 'HURRY-UP' STYLE

For best cooking results, bake acorn squash with the cut side down in a shallow pan filled with about one inch of water. Medium-size squash cooks in only about 30 minutes at 400 degrees F.

To cook diced butternut squash, simmer it in a saucepan with a small amount of water for 15-20 minutes.

VERSATILITY GIVES MENUS VARIETY

For a special menu treat, try winter squash in main-dish, side-dish or dessert recipes, Miss Haggard suggests.

Crowned Acorn Squash makes a main-dish glamorous with its bright red pimento adding color and flavor to a stuffing of hot pork sausage in a creamy white sauce.

CROWNED ACORN SQUASH

1 small onion, chopped
3 acorn squash
1½ cup milk
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons chopped pimento
salt to taste
1 pound hot pork sausage

Split squash lengthwise and remove membrane and seeds. Sprinkle each half with a small amount of salt. Place cut side down in a shallow pan in about an inch of water. Bake for 30 minutes at 400 degree F. Fry sausage, drain well and break into small bite-size pieces.

Saute onion in butter, add flour. Slowly add milk and stir until mixture becomes a smooth cream sauce. Add pimento and sausage to the sauce and mix. Fill center of well-drained squash with sauce and serve hot. Makes 6 servings.

Scouts help needy family

Cub Scout Pack 151 of Georgetown held its monthly Pack Meeting and Christmas Party Dec. 15.

The Pack sponsored a needy family. Each boy worked to earn money to buy gifts for the family and made decorations to trim a tree which was given to the family.

A special "Thanks" from the Pack goes to its sponsor, The First United Methodist Church, for allowing use of the church facilities for the Pack's meetings.

The Pack sends a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year wish to all its members.

Sports

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By Wilbur Callaway

For one of the few times all year, sports activities on the local level are at a virtual standstill as everyone takes time out to observe the birthday of our Lord, each in his own way.

For many, it's a time of visiting with relatives, some of which you haven't seen since last Christmas. For others, it's an opportunity to get out in the woods and try to outwit some whitetail deer as the season rapidly heads for a close.

While we pause a few days from the hectic schedule which occupies us most of the other 51 weeks of the year, this writer would like to convey Christmas wishes to some of the folks I come in contact with while attempting to give the best coverage possible to local news in the SUN.

—To Coach Les Johnson and his very capable football staff at Georgetown High, I'd like to wish a profitable off-season program which will develop some much-needed speed to make next fall's Eagles a district championship. In order to do this, GHS needs a track. So Santa, get busy.

—To Coaches Dan Noll and Natalie Gunter, as well as the other basketball coaches in the Georgetown school system, I'd wish they could have district championship teams this winter — and both the boys and girls teams could very well do it, as each has shown flashes of title potential early in the campaign.

—And to Coaches John Edwards and Glada Munt at Southwestern, the same thing: championships for their teams, especially for Edwards' Pirates as they try to dethrone St. Mary's after so many years of seeing the Rattlers win the Big State Conference crown.

—To Mayor John Doerfler, City Manager Leo Wood and the gentlemen who are on the City Council, I'd like to wish for them to have a smooth year while running the city government . . . and find some way to lower our monthly fuel adjustment charges.

—To Jack Frost and all the other officials in the Georgetown schools, a trouble-free year in which the students all put out their finest efforts to make our school system the very best anywhere.

—To Les Bunte and his volunteer fire department, less fires and more cooperation from citizens in reporting fires that do occur.

—And to all those others I may have overlooked, as well as all the readers of the SUN, a very MERRY CHRISTMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR.

Pirates top BSC in rebounds, FG

Southwestern University's Pirates, with the second-best won-loss record in the Big State Conference at the Christmas holiday break, leads the league in rebounding and field goal percentage.

The Pirates, 5-4 overall and trailing only East Texas Baptist (6-4) in the season standings, have pulled down 437 rebounds for 48.6 per game and are shooting at 48.7 percent from the floor with 314 field goals in 645 attempts.

Texas Lutheran is the runnerup in rebounds with 46.0 per game and East Texas Baptist is close behind the Pirates in field goal shooting with a percentage of 48.6.

St. Mary's leads in free throw shooting with a 79.2 percentage while Southwestern is third at 71.7, trailing the Rattlers and runnerup East Texas Baptist (73.2).

St. Mary's, the perennial champion, is 4-5 so far this season with Huston-Tillotson 3-6, Texas Lutheran 2-5 and St. Edward's 2-7.

Individually, Southwestern's Phillip Sewell ranks third in scoring with a 19.2 average behind Graham of East Texas Baptist (21.6) and Richards of Huston-Tillotson (19.6). Carl Belcher of the Pirates is a close fourth at 19.1 points per game.

Belcher is second in rebounding at 11.3 per game behind Richards (11.5) while Sewell ranks seventh in individual rebounding with 7.2 per game. Jeff Weaver of Southwestern is fifth in individual rebounding with 7.2 per game. Jeff Weaver of Southwestern is fifth in individual field goal percentage with 57.4, Mike Thompson is sixth at 53.9 and Belcher seventh at 53.1. Kindred of St. Edward's is the leader with a 67.3 percentage mark.

In individual free throws, Cunningham of St. Mary's leads with a 90.9 percentage but SU's Weaver is close behind at 87.5. Steve Gibbs of the Pirates ranks eighth at 80.0.

SU's Thompson is the assists leader in the conference with 6.2 per game and Jay Lewis of the Pirates is tied with Thomas of Texas Lutheran and Jaklich of St. Mary's for the runner-up spot with 5.0 each.

Along with Sewell and Belcher, the other Pirates in double figures average for scoring are Thompson (10.7) and Lester Hahn (10.3). Lewis is scoring at an average of 8.7, Weaver 7.6, Gibbs 5.1, Adrian Knapper 4.9, Larry Chase 2.6, Kenny Whitworth 1.7, Jon Smith 1.5 and Herbert Coe 2.0 for the Pirates.

Belcher has 102 rebounds to lead the team while Sewell has pulled down 65, Hahn 47, Weaver 43 and Gibbs 34.

The Pirates will be back in action Jan. 4 in Edmonds, Okla., when they take on Central Oklahoma State. They'll return home for three games in a row at Sid Richardson Fieldhouse, meeting Texas College Jan. 7, Tarleton State Jan. 9 and East Texas Baptist Jan. 14 in a Big State Conference opener.

Klar leading SU's scoring

It's been an up-and-down season so far for the Southwestern University Pirates women's basketball team, but they show a 5-4 record after the pre-Christmas holiday portion of their campaign.

The Pirates were especially hot in their last game before the holiday break Dec. 14, plastering visiting Trinity University 64-36 with Mary Klar scoring a career-high of 22 points.

Southwestern will be back in action Jan. 11 at Edinburg against Pan American University and then meet Texas A&I Jan. 14 at Sid Richardson Fieldhouse in a preliminary game to the men's contest between Southwestern and East Texas Baptist.

Klar, who has scored 103 points this season, leads the Pirate women in scoring with an average of 11.4 per game. Risa Marshall is next with a 9.2 average, followed by Tracy Strane at 7.3, Laura Dawson with 6.2, Tanya Nygrin 5.9, Theresa Leigh 5.2 and Sharon Eoff 4.6.

Dawson is the team's top rebounder with 64 while Klar has pulled down 62 rebounds, Marshall 54, Nygrin 43, Eugenia Lieberum 41, Eoff 30, Strane 29 and Leigh 25.

Eagles invade Austin

Georgetown High's Eagles play their final non-conference basketball game Wednesday night in Austin, taking on the McCallum Knights in a last warmup for District 12AAA competition.

Coach Dan Noll's Eagles are 9-7 for the season so far and currently hampered with a two-game losing streak.

Killeen, a powerful member of 15AAAA, dealt the Eagles a decisive 76-48 loss Tuesday night at Eagle Gym in the latest contest, handing GHS its first home court loss of the year in the process.

Prior to that loss, the Eagles dropped a 54-43 battle with Rockdale in the finals of the Rockdale Tournament Dec. 17 after reaching the finals by dumping Dime Box 54-48 and Elgin 67-57.

Following the game with McCallum, GHS will jump into district action Friday night at Taylor against the Ducks, who were struggling along with a 5-7 record at last report.

NFL's season was exciting

Every year, right after the gun has sounded ending the final regular season game, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle instantly proclaims that it has been "The most exciting season in league history."

Only this time he's right.

Consider. On the final weekend of the regular season, four of the eight playoff berths were still up for grabs. One division, the AFC East, still had three teams in contention going into Week No. 14. In the last few hours of the 1977 regular season, we saw the following phenomena:

1) The Cincinnati Bengals strengthening their claim to the title of "Biggest Chokers in Pro Football."

2) The Houston Oilers getting some sweet revenge for a disputed loss to the Bengals earlier this season.

3) The Chicago Bears making the playoffs for the first time since 1963.

4) A field goal kicked out of two inches of snow with four seconds remaining in overtime to put the Chicago Bears into the playoffs.

5) The Washington Redskins and the Miami Dolphins helplessly watching television as their playoff hopes died on distant battlefields.

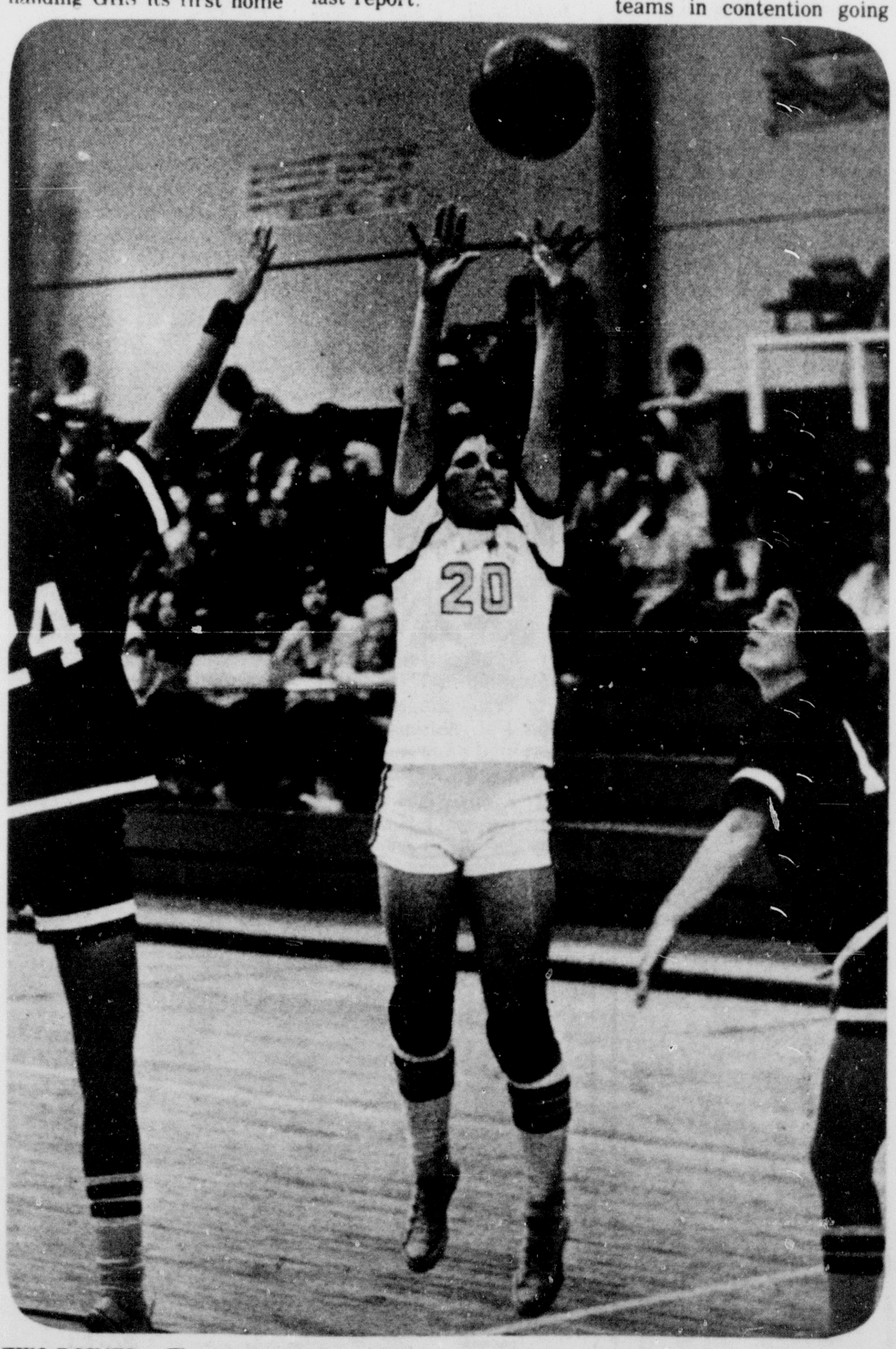
6) The Baltimore Colts rallying from a 21-3 deficit with three Bert Jones touchdown passes to overtake the Patriots 30-24, snap a three game losing streak and win the AFC East Title for the third straight year.

7) The NFC Wild Card team coming from somewhere other than the Eastern Division for the first time since 1970.

So, now that the dust has settled, what are we left with? Probably the most hotly contested playoffs the NFL has seen since the merger eight years ago.

In the AFC, we have three teams (Oakland, Pittsburgh and Baltimore) that have been to the well before. But the fourth team, the Broncos, are making their first playoff appearance ever in the 18-year history of the franchise. But lest you shed too many tears for the poor, inexperienced Broncos, let me remind you that Denver, at 12-2, sports the best record in the AFC, a record that was compiled against consistently strong competition.

On the surface at least, the two first round playoff encounters in the NFC look about as appealing as three-day-old hot milk. By all reasonable accounts, the Rams should disembowel the Vikings and the Cowboys should yawn past the Bears. That would set up the Cowboy-Ram shootout for the NFC title that everybody expected when all this began five months ago.



TWO POINTS — Theresa Leigh of Southwestern University gets off a jump shot for a basket and two of her 10 points in the Pirates' recent 64-36 win over Trinity University. Leigh is averaging 5.2 points per game and "learning the full-court game surprisingly fast," according to Coach Glada Munt. The George West freshman had played only defense in high school in the half-court style of basketball.

Big year for Dallas, Dorsett

To define what was a banner year for record setting by the Dallas Cowboys during the 1977 regular season, one must separate the marks set by: A. the team, B. Tony Dorsett; C. other individuals.

In the category team records, the Cowboys set 11 new standards. They are:

1. Fewest net yards by opponents (3,213); 2. fewest net yards passing by opponents (1,562); 3. fewest total yards passing by opponents (1,991); 4. most yards lost attempting to pass by opponents (429); 5. fewest fumbles lost by opponents (10); 6. fewest pass completions by opponents (154); 7. fewest passes intercepted by opponents (10); 8. most penalties by opponents (78); and 9. most punts by opponents (102).

The Cowboys also committed the most penalties in the history of the club for a single season (106) and punted more times than any other Dallas team (83).

The Cowboys 12-2 record in 1977 tied the best record ever by a Cowboys team since the 1968 team also was 12-2.

Tony Dorsett's first-year saw him:

Become the eighth rookie in NFL history to rush for 1,000 or more yards by finishing with 1,007 yards in 208 carries (an average of 4.8 yards per carry). The seven rookie 1,000-yard rushers that preceded Dorsett and their totals and years were: Don Woods, San Diego (1,162 in 1974), Lawrence McCutcheon, Los Angeles (1,097 in 1973), Franco Harris, Pittsburgh (1,055 in 1972), John Brockington, Green Bay (1,105 in 1971), Paul Robinson, Cincinnati (1,023 in 1968), Cookie Gilchrist, Buffalo (1,096 in 1962), Beattie Feathers, Chicago Bears (1,004 in 1934).

What is significant to note is the distinguished runners who did not gain 1,000 yards as rookies. That group would include Jim Brown, O. J. Simpson, Jim Taylor, Gale Sayers, Larry Brown, Larry Csonka and Walter Payton.

Dorsett also set a team record for longest run from scrimmage (84 yards vs. the Eagles), most yards gained in a game (206 vs. the Eagles), became only the third NFL rookie — and first in 20 years — to rush for more than 200 yards in a game, and became only the second Cowboy (for the third time in club history) to gain a 1,000 or more yards (Calvin Hill did it twice).

His 1,007 yards was the best for Dallas since Hill had 1,142 yards in 1973. In addition, Dorsett had a 77-yard scoring run and set a club record for the most rushing touchdowns in a season (12).

One other Dorsett mark: He broke a record held jointly by Dan Reeves, Walt Garrison and Doug Dennison by scoring touchdowns in six consecutive games — New York Giants Nov. 6 through San Francisco Dec. 12. Reeves, Garrison and Dennison previously held the record by scoring in four straight games during their careers.

Roger Staubach, Danny White, Butch Johnson, Drew Pearson, Preston Pearson and Thomas Henderson also earned slots in the record book.

Staubach's 210 pass completions broke his own record of 208 set in 1976, while he also became the top Cowboys quarterback in history in terms of completions. Staubach's 1,187 career completions breaks Don Meredith's record of 1,170 completions set from 1960-68. This was Staubach's ninth year in the NFL and Meredith played nine seasons.

White's 80 punts broke Sam Baker's 1963 record of 71 punts.

Butch Johnson, who did not return kicks in the finale — a 14-6 win over Denver Sunday — because he is nursing a tender ankle, broke his own club record set a year ago of 45 punt returns by returning 50 this season.

Drew Pearson, who broke Lance Rentzel's consecutive game receptions record weeks ago, now has caught at least one pass in 45 consecutive regular season games. Pearson had his best season in terms of average gain per reception (18.1 yards) and the All-Pro wide receiver also had the second highest yards gained total of his career (870 yards, compared to 1,087 yards on 62 catches in 1974). Pearson caught 48 passes this year.

Henderson, who ran an interception back 79 yards for a touchdown in the season's third game against Tampa Bay, became the first Cowboy to score with an intercepted pass since Randy Hughes turned the trick against the New York Jets in 1975.

Preston Pearson's 46 receptions is the most in Cowboys' history by a running back.

T.P.& L. asks rate increase in Round Rock

Texas Power & Light Company has filed with the City Council of Round Rock and the Public Utility Commission of Texas a request for an overall average 18.4% revenue adjustment that would increase the company's general revenues $118 million, system-wide. The request is based on operations in the test year ended September 30, 1977.

THE OVERALL REQUEST is an average for all classes of customers. Increased revenue requirements will vary from one rate class to another. For example, residential revenues to the company will increase 25.4%, municipal services 23.4%, commercial and industrial 14.9%.

Jim Boles, TP&L manager, says that under the requested increase, the total bill of the average residential customer using 11,012 kilowatt hours per year, would increase about $8.88 a month.

Boles has asked to appear before the council to discuss the rate request.

Boles noted that rate increases to TP&L customers in the recent past have been necessary to allow the company to build facilities to provide for the electricity needs of present and future customers and to convert from the use of natural gas, which is expensive and undependable in supply, to lower cost lignite coal and nuclear fuel for generating electricity.

OUR CUSTOMERS will see increased benefits of this conversion program in 1978," said Boles, "when Texas Power & Light becomes one of only a very few electric utility companies in the country with a declining fuel charge per kilowatt hour to its customers."

"We are now generating 35% of our electricity with lignite," Boles said, "and that percentage will increase to over 54% in 1978 when two new lignite-fired generating units are placed in service."

The TP&L manager pointed out that in TP&L's last rate adjustment the company has asked for an amount sufficient to meet financial requirements thru mid-1979. The amount granted, Boles said, was only 43% of that requested. "We have no choice but to seek additional rate relief if we are to continue our present construction schedule, converting from gas to lignite and nuclear," said Boles. "Present rates will not properly support that program. This requested increase should provide the needed support into 1980."

WILLIAM and KATY HOWELL, residents of Sweetbriar Nursing Home, celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary Thursday, recalling the rainy day in 1907 when they drove their buggy to the parsonage and had the preacher marry them while they sat in the carriage. They are lifelong residents of Florence and both enjoy recalling their younger years in that prospering west Williamson County community. He is 103 years old.

Horticulture Notes

By John N. Cooper

Thousands of evergreen trees will be planted at the close of this holiday season. Many gardeners have responded to the call for a greener earth. By selecting living trees for decorating at Christmas the festive occasion will not be wholly lost after New Year's Day. The tree will simply be planted in the yard outside. But take heart you can still plant a Christmas tree in your yard after the holiday season or even right now. These living Christmas trees are nothing more than balled-and-burlapped evergreens bought at the local nursery.

Yes, the season for transplanting is upon us. Thoughts return to this summer when you wished you had a touch of color or some shade where there was none. Well, now is your big chance to change your landscape situation. Old dying or decayed trees may be replaced by young vigorous saplings or even with grown trees of respectable size.

Most of the best adapted trees can be found at your local nursery. Nurserymen see which trees they must replace eacy year through guarantees on survivability. Consequently, they stock the trees that do best. However, they will often stock trees that popularity demands they stock. Trees with marginal adaptation to our area must be given special care. Your nurseryman is knowledgeable of the problems associated with the culture of each of the trees he handles. Close attention paid to him at the point of sale will prevent many of the problems that can be overcome by proper soil preparation and planting.

Subsequent care such as watering, fertilizing, pruning and spraying should be thoroughly understood before planting any tree or shrub. Most people prefer looking at a well kept low maintanence yard than one excelling in specialty plants but which has not received sufficient care. Select plants that suit your own abilities in time and talents. Some of our most beautiful trees are those native plants such as Live Oak, Cedar Elm and Spanish Oak that usually require little other than fertilizer and proper watering.

When one considers the initial cost of plants, the cost of space you reserve for them and the many years of maintainence you must provide the proper selection of plants to use becomes paramount. They must not only be adapted to the local environment but also your own personal commitment to their success.

The Williamson County Extension Service provides information on the adaptibility and care of trees and ornamentals of every sort. We adhere to the Extension philosophy of equal public service to all people of every age, socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion and national origin.

License plate renewal notices to go out soon

A large number of automobile license plate renewal notices should go out from Georgetown Post Office and other area post offices soon after Christmas. License plate renewal notices for almost 11 million motor vehicles are in U.S. post offices throughout Texas for delivery to owners beginning the day after Christmas.

R. W. Townsley, director of the Motor Vehicle Division, State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, said the renewal notices were stuffed into envelopes, pre-sorted by zip code, boxed and delivered to post offices to expedite delivery. Work to get the renewal notices ready for delivery started in early October.

"The plate renewals for passenger cars and light trucks (such as pickups) will be different from last year. A new law requires that renewal dates be spread as equally as possible over 12 months, rather than have all expire at one time (April 1) each year," Townsley said.

Since the Motor Vehicle Division does not maintain records by owner's name or birth date, the license number of the vehicle has been used to determine the month of registration renewal in the future.

Renewal notices have been issued to reflect the number of months and the prorated fee to be paid to register each vehicle under the new system.

A complete explanation of the new system is enclosed with each renewal notice for passenger cars and light trucks (one ton or less). It is imperative that vehicle owners not lose the registration notice as it must be presented at the county tax collection office to obtain new license plates.

Because of the new system, registration may take longer this first year than ever before. The new law authorizes county tax assessors-collectors to start processing the renewals a month early.

Your county tax assessor - collector is ready when you are — any time starting with the county's first work day in 1978.

"Look for your friendly postman to bring your license plate renewal notice shortly after Christmas," Townsley said. "Do yourself a favor — take your renewal notice to your county tax office and register early. You'll be sorry if you don't."

Proper precautions may prevent theft

The Christmas season usually signals an increase in the number of thefts and burglaries, John L. Hill, Texas' Attorney General, says. Georgetown people can be alert and prevent unhappy experiences, he says. Hill gives this advice to local citizens:

A happy holiday can turn into a sad occasion if your Christmas presents or other belongings disappear from car or home in your absence.

Our attorneys and local law enforcement authorities stress that, where thefts or burglaries are concerned, prevention is the key word. They urge consumers to look for ways to increase security in the home during this time of the year, then use them year-round.

Being "security conscious" is a way of thinking that doesn't require much extra effort. It's as simple as remembering to lock your door when you step across the street for a neighborly chat. To achieve this "security conscious" attitude initially, it helps to understand what a burglar looks for when a decision is made to break into a house.

Police officials say most burglars are looking for a way to get something for nothing — or next to nothing — so they seek out an "easy job." They don't want to be seen or heard and they need easy, quick access and escape.

You should analyze your home with this in mind and make it as difficult as possible for your home to be broken into. Remove dense shrubbery near entries that could give a burglar "cover." Make sure you have adequate street and outdoor lighting.

The lawyers in our Consumer Protection Division suggest these additional guidelines to prevent a burglary in your home this Christmas:

—Lock all doors and windows, after consulting with a locksmith about the safest locks to install.

—If you're going shopping, leave a light or two on. If you go on a holiday vacation, set an automatic timer to turn on lights.

—Leave shades and blinds in normal positions.

—Keep the garage door closed.

—Many local police departments have property identification programs in which you engrave your driver's license number on equipment such as television sets, radios, stereos, and typewriters. Join your local program and place a red decal on your windows and doors to inform potential thieves that your property is marked.

—Notify police and neighbors to keep an eye out for unusual activity if you're going on a holiday trip, and have your mail and newspaper deliveries stopped.

—Lock Christmas gifts in the trunk of your car when you are out on a last minute holiday shopping spree.

—Get a special bar for sliding glass doors, or wedge a broomstick in the track to prevent the door from being opened.

—Remember to stay "security conscious" even after Christmas.

If you have a consumer complaint, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division in Austin, Dallas, San Antonio, Houston, Lubbock, El Paso, or McAllen. If you live outside these areas, call toll-free: 1-800-252-9236.

SAD DUO

Joanne Woodward, as Lola, and Laurence Olivier, as her husband Doc Delaney try to figure out a way toward a brighter future in "Come Back, Little Sheba," a new production of the William Inge play, which will air on NBC Saturday Night at the Movies, Dec. 31.

Olivier is a sensitive, troubled chiropractor, and Woodward is his faded wife, whose life revolves around her old dog, Sheba. Carrie Fisher, in her dramatic TV debut, plays Marie, the young college girl boarding with the Delaneys who is idealized by Doc.

SECRET LIFE

Jodie Foster stars as a young girl who learns her grandfather, played by Eduard Franz, is as young inside as she is, in "The Secret Life of T.K. Dearing," repeating on ABC Short Story Special, Saturday, Dec. 31.

THEY ALL LAUGHED

Carrie Fisher got help from one of the best in the business when she faced the cameras for the first time on TV in "Goodbye Little Sheba," airing Dec. 31. Laurence Olivier helped Carrie to laugh. Says Fisher: "It may be difficult for the average person to realize, but it is tougher for a performer to laugh on screen than it is to cry ... to conjure a full, sustained laugh which really sounds heartfelt is difficult."

FRIDAY

EVIL TOYS

Frank Gorshin, the man who has built a career out of doing impressions of other famous actors, tackles a character role of his own on The Amazing Adventures of Wonder Woman, Friday, Dec. 30.

All done up in a Santa Claus suit, Gorshin plays an evil toymaker whose remote controlled toys and amazingly "human" androids steal the ultra-top secret plans of the XYZ weapon.

It's up to Wonder Woman (Lynda Carter) and her co-hort Steve Trevor (Lyle Waggoner) to come to the rescue.

Basketball and Football

Sports fans can drink up some football cheer on CBS on Christmas day when the Fiesta Bowl game is broadcast from Tempe, Arizona. Pennsylvania State will take on the University of Arizona.

Sports enthusiasts can enjoy a holiday double-header on Christmas Day. CBS will present an NBA contest between the Buffalo Braves and the Cleveland Cavaliers at the Coliseum in Richfield, Ohio, on the afternoon of December 25. This basketball contest will be followed by football: college football's Fiesta Bowl game will be played at Tempe, Arizona.

The teams involved in the Fiesta Bowl are Pennsylvania State University and Arizona State University. Penn State closed out its regular-season play with a record of 10 victories and one defeat. Its last game was a 15-13 win over the University of Pittsburgh on three field goals by Matt Bahr and Mike Gunman's 52-yard touchdown on a punt reverse. Arizona has a record of 9-2.

Although the two sports seem totally dissimilar (except for being played with a ball), basketball is actually derived from football. Football followed the usual course of competitive sports: evolution from simple game to organized sport in a slow, centuries-long process that makes it difficult to put a date on its beginning. In Chester, England, the inhabitants maintain that their traditional Shrove Tuesday football game originated with kicking around the skull of a Danish pirate.

Basketball's beginnings are more civilized. It was invented in 1691 by James Naismith, who was then instructor in the YMCA college at Springfield, Massachusetts. Naismith came up with the idea of basketball to fill in the wintertime gap between football in the autumn and baseball in the spring.

Football would have been impractical indoors, so Naismith made changes in the game. First, he got rid of tackling and ruled that the ball could be taken from an opponent only when it was not in his hands. The second change had to do with the limited space indoors (relative to a football field). Sprinting with the ball would have made the game too short, so Naismith invented dribbling. The third major change was the method of making a goal: for the sake of space and safety, the goals were made by tossing a ball into a basket set 10 feet above the ground. And so, from this rule, basketball got its name.

The two cousins will be together as consecutive events on the CBS network on Christmas Day in the afternoon.

French actor Alain Delon (left) brings the legendary masked rider and hero of the oppressed, Zorro, back to the screen, as he crosses swords with the evil Colonel Huerta, played by the late Stanley Baker, in the world premiere of "Zorro," The CBS Friday Night Movie, Dec. 30. The film is an Italian production made in 1975.

ALI BAGS A BIG ONE

World heavy-weight champion Muhammad Ali is excited about playing the lead in the upcoming NBC miniseries "Freedom Road."

The six-hour film, based on the best-selling book of the same name by Howard Fast, centers on a black man who fights his way upward from slavery to a seat in the U.S. Senate during the Reconstruction Period.

Ali said he likes the project because it depicts events in American history, is educational, and shows how people can unite to battle a common enemy (Ku Klux Klan).

He said, "My manager told me I've been chasing so many ants that the elephants have been marching by, meaning that I've accepted so many small projects. I'm convinced this time that I've finally caught an elephant, a big elephant. I've been offered several roles since "The Greatest," but I'm honored to be considered a good enough actor to take such a serious role. This is the real test."

The champ plans to film the miniseries sometime next year for the 1978-79 season. "I want to make this movie as the world champion. I don't know right now whether I'll fight again, but I have 11 months to defend the title. I know I'm near the end in boxing, but I'm still young in acting.

Kurt Russel (left) and Mitchell Ryan play coal miners trapped underground (along with Andrew Prine, not pictured) by an explosion in an unsafe mine in "A Christmas Coal Mine Miracle," on NBC Monday Night at the Movies, Dec. 26.

After an earlier explosion nearby causes a major cave-in, miners threaten a wild-cat strike unless the dangerous gases are eliminated. But the mine owner (Don Porter) is unwilling to take the precautions. The three miners are trapped after a second explosion.

The film was made on location in Montana.

Many persons are electrocuted in their homes each year. These accidents usually result from holding a faulty electrical appliance while touching a grounded faucet, wash basin, pipe, wet floor or other object leading directly to ground.

JUNIOR HOOD

The immortal legend of Robin Hood gets a new twist in an exciting young people's version Thursday, Dec. 29, when PBS presents Once Upon a Classic: "Robin Hood Junior."

In this new tale, youngsters play all the roles. Robin, seen here taking aim with his bow and arrow, is played by Keith Chegwin. Keith performed all his own stunts in "Robin Hood Junior," and by the end of shooting had become quite a proficient archer.

Marion is played by Mandy Tulloch, Edmund by Dean Lawrence, Lord Gilbert (Marion's father) is Alexander John.

Hearthrob of Canadian Television

A young Canadian, Rene Simard, is on his way to international superstardom. His series, The Rene Simard Show, is currently airing on CBC Television. The singer had his first hit, "Ave Maria," when he was nine; this was followed by "Mama Cherie," "Santa Lucia," and by his 100,000 selling album "Un Enfant Comme Les Autres." He has appeared on the Merv Griffin and Mike Douglas shows, on a CBC Superspecial, at a sell-out CNE concert, and on the CBC 25th Anniversary Special. And he's only 16 years old.

The audience-relations people at work on his series have to handle more than 100 ticket requests a day, and there were near-fist-fights among disappointed youngsters during the first week's tapings. Mostly the besiegers are screaming young girls, pleading to get in "just for a look" and "we just want to hear him sing."

Through it all, Simard is noted for being modest, unaffected,and genuinely "nice." Producer Alan Thicke says, "I note that the fun feeling and totally relaxed working atmosphere we have here, simply because of Rene and his fresh natural style, shows itself in the final product. I can't tell you how much I'm enjoying doing this CBC series."

"There's a unique situation in the Canadian entertainment industry," Thicke comments. "At least, since I've been involved in the business. We have a genuine international superstar who is receiving recognition from audiences and fans of all ages in Paris, Las Vegas and Tokyo. However, it's disturbing to find that many talented Canadian stars are not getting as much recognition as they deserve from their own home-grown audiences until after they make it outside Canada. But I'm noticing through working on this series, which by the way is initially extended to 26 weeks, twice the usual run, that Rene's audiences are most certainly giving him 100 percent recognition and appreciation, and I feel good about that."

Singer-series star Rene Simard is on his way to superstardom. The 16-year-old has his own show, "The Rene Simard Show" on CBC.

Where all this recognition and appreciation will lead Simard is, of course, yet to be seen. Of necessity, very few people can evaluate a superstar's experiences from a superstar's point of view. Simard was presented with the Frank Sinatra Award for Best Performance at the International Tokyo Song Festival by Sinatra himself. On that occasion, Sinatra gave the boy the somewhat ambiguous advice "don't grow up ..." This may be a hint, from one superstar to another, that Simard's best years are now.

He is certainly prosperous enough. Although still a teenager, he is already a millionaire. He has made hit records and three movies, and has performed at sold-out concerts and international tours. He receives the adulation of both teen-age girls and their mothers. "All I know is, he's the kind of boy I wouldn't mind having for a son," said a Toronto waitress.

"The Rene Simard Show" is billed as a musicomedy festival. Besides Simard, it features the music of "Whatta Band" under Denis McCarthy; the singing "Renettes" (Melinda Whittaker, Rosalind Keene and Joani Taylor); and a backup trio of hockey stars (Marcel Dionne, Rogie Vachon, and "Boom Boom" Geoffrion); the "James' Angels" dancers; and a long list of guest stars.

Presto Chango! Athlete Olsen is an Actor

By WINIFRED ELZE

With a height of 6'5" and a weight of 255 lbs., Merlin Olsen found himself ideally suited for a career in professional football. His background, however, includes a B.S. in economics from Utah State, from which he was graduated summa cum laude in 1962, and an M.S. in economics from Utah State in 1970. Most recently, he has turned his talents to acting and to sportscasting, and has a continuing role on Little House on the Prairie.

About the transition from football to acting, he says, "One of the first things I noticed was that there's no way for me to take out the ... frustrations. There's nobody for me to hit. I had to learn to channel my own energies into what I was doing."

His role on Little House on the Prairie, says Olsen, is "Jonathan Garvey. He's a woodsman, outdoorsman, kind of a confident frontier type. He's a friend of Michael Landon's and works in the sawmill with him. He's the kind of guy Pa Ingalls goes to when he wants a friend, a family man. I have a wife and son."

Garvey, Olsen says, "basically enjoys living. One of the nice things about doing the character was that I was given some latitude about what I was going to do. There's quite a bit of me in Jonathan Garvey. He's stubborn, certainly very sure of himself; but he's sensitive, he wants to do what's right. He feels a tremendous load of responsibility."

On one episode of the series, Olsen explained, "The barn burns down. The Garvey family loses the year's crop." Garvey decides to leave his wife because she accepts a job in spite of his disapproval, and has an emotional farewell with his son. The plot, says Olsen, hinges on Garvey's "depression that arises out of his guilt and that triggers the problem."

Olsen chose to switch from football to acting because he was looking for something that would give him the "challenge emotionally as well as intellectually that I had as an athlete. One of the areas that would do that was acting ... I decided awhile ago that I would like to find out if it were something I was good at. I have a contract with NBC ... I have responsibilities as a broadcaster and also acting and news responsibilities."

"I never did really study acting," Olsen says, adding that he has "worked with professional coaches. I haven't had time to do that. I had to do most of my learning on the job ... I think some of my training as an athlete was also good training for acting: I had to learn to control my emotions and concentrate, and not to be afraid of crowds and TV cameras."

His acting career so far, he says, has taken "a tremendous amount of energy and I was eager to do as much as I could as quickly as I could ... I had 15 years of professional football. After five years they start to talk of you as an aging veteran." Since beginning his acting career, Olsen says he has "gone from aging veteran to young rookie in one year."

Of all the emotions an actor is called on to play, Olsen finds it "hardest to portray anger .... I have much more confidence with a scene that involves other emotions besides anger. I think it's because I had to work to control it for so long -- if you lose control you're out of the football game. I had to unlock some of it."

As for acquiring the acting technique necessary to do a fight scene, Olsen says he has "done quite a bit earlier." He worked on a motion picture, "The Undefeated," and "spent four or five days doing a gigantic fight scene" which involved "26 stunt men. There were other scenes to do, and I worked a great deal with three of the men. They showed me how to take a punch, how to throw a punch for the camera. Stunt men and football players have a great deal in common."

As for playing someone very different from himself, Olsen says he is "not yet ready. That's one of the things I said about the role of Jonathan Garvey: if I'd been asked to do it with a limp and an English accent, I'd have been in real trouble. After I have some experience, I'd like to be challenged by being asked to do something different, but I'm not ready yet."

Contrasting acting and sportscasting, Olsen says they are "both challenging ... they're quite different, although they're both considered performing. I'm better prepared for sportscasting -- evaluating what's happening on the football field and talking about the basics of football technique, it's not that far away. Acting is a radical departure but also I'm prepared for it emotionally. It's not as difficult as I thought. I've begun to get confident with it sooner than I had hoped."

About his original career choice, between economics and football, Olsen says, "When I came out of school ... my best offer came from the Los Angeles Rams ... I was offered a great deal of money for something that I liked doing. I didn't find it a difficult choice to make."

As to whether his background in economics offers him any side benefits, Olsen says "it has, although I haven't taken advantage of it. I never had to lean on those areas for professional reasons ... It's done a great deal to shape my life and personality."

Olsen has been doing a great deal of traveling in his role as a sportscaster. "Every week I go somewhere around the country on NFL sports," he says. "I went to the World Tug of War Championships on the Island of Jersey. I do more traveling than I want to -- each weekend for the games, and I will be doing Little House during the week and the games on the weekends.

His wife, he says, is "a little concerned about it and I am, too. Fortunately, the location for Little House is easy driving distance. I hope we'll be able to work it out -- and it doesn't last the whole year."

On the whole, Olsen has found his experiences as an actor to be enjoyable. "I enjoy it, I enjoy the people," he says. "I appreciate Michael Landon's help and working with a professional crew on Little House on the Prairie."

IT REALLY HAPPENED!

One night, when famed actor John Barrymore was playing Shakespeare's "Richard III," he shouted his agonized plea, "A horse! A horse! My kingdom for a horse!" A cougher in the balcony came in on cue and threatened to steal the scene. Barrymore added, without missing a beat, "Make haste and saddle yonder braying ass!"

Another time, during a flu epidemic, when coughing in the theater reached beyond an actor's wildest nightmare, Barrymore took a five-pound sea bass from beneath his cloak and flung it at the audience. "Busy yourself with this, you walruses, while the rest of us proceed with the libretto!"

* * *

One time, when the renowned maestro Arturo Toscanini was conducting Verdi's opera "Otello," a bomb was thrown on stage, reportedly by a singer he had dismissed for incompetence. You must admit, that makes a coughing fit seem mild by comparison.

TV Star Scene

The man who has made an appearance all over the world will be showing up next on television. Who else but Henry Kissinger? Kissinger will be expressing his views on Eurocommunism and its impact on American foreign policy on a 90-minute NBC news special, "Henry Kissinger: On the Record," Friday, Jan. 13. NBC news correspondent David Brinkley will guide the former secretary of state through his observations on the Middle East, terrorism in Western Europe, as well as interviews with European Communist leaders. True to Kissinger's travelling nature, the special was filmed in France, Italy, Spain, Portugal, and West Germany.

Other specials coming up include, "A Tribute to Mr. Television," a comedy special about Milton Berle and his expansive television career ... A John Denver personal appearance tour in Australia which will become an ABC special sporting such stars as Lee Marvin, Robby Benson, and Susan Saint James ... "CBS: On the Air," a 50th anniversary show which will include clips from CBS shows and more than 100 guest stars, some of whom will be Steve Allen, Lucille Ball, Ed Asner, Bea Arthur, Art Linkletter, Tony Randall and Carol Burnett.

Elizabeth Taylor graduates to royalty when she plays the aging Queen Victoria in "The Mudlark," an NBC TV-movie scheduled for Dec. 1978. Based on an historical novel, the movie is about an orphan who finds his way into a castle...Dean Jones and Louise Sorel star as an attorney and his interior decorator wife in "When Every Day Was the Fourth of July," a pilot for a prospective series on NBC. The pilot will be aired March 28. Directly following that on NBC will be "Dean Martin's Celebrity Roast," where a well-known personality will be scathed by his peers. Let's not forget the miniseries. NBC will present "Black Beauty," Anna Sewell's family classic about the beautiful stallion. The show will run the first week in Feb. and includes a host of performers: Kristoffer Tabori, Eileen Brennen, Martin Milner, Cameron Mitchell, Diane Ladd, William Devane, Farley Granger, Brock Peters, Diana Muldaur and more.

PBS will have a miniseries of its own beginning Jan. 7 called "Que Pasa, USA?" The series uses a situation comedy format to examine the life of the Tenas, a fictional Cuban-American family living in Miami's "Little Havana."

Saturday Night Live fans will have to be content with a glimpse of the tiny country of Lichtenstein on NBC's "Weekend" Jan. 7 ... Ray Bolger will play a comedian down on his luck on an upcoming episode of "Baretta" ... Charo will go the family hour route later this season when she makes an appearance on ABC's "Donny & Marie" show.

Delacorte has seen fit to publish TV writer Jerry Ludwig. Ludwig's script "Little Boy Lost" written for an episode of "Police Story" was turned into a book. "It's not just a pumped-up script," says Ludwig. "The TV part is about a third of it." Ludwig says the book is selling well.

Cincinnati Reds pitcher Tom Seaver will host 10 episodes of "Greatest Sports Legends." The syndicated series about great athletes will try to trace individual's careers, the personal highlights and low spots. Said Seaver, "And almost all have low spots...

And here's a pearl of wisdom about the acting profession: Said Robert Blake on NBC's "The Tonight Show," "My kids ask me how I know when I'm acting. I tell them -- when they pay you, that's when you're acting." Would Lee Strasbourg agree with that?

TRAGEDY -- How old was Jack Cassidy when he died? Also, how old was his wife Shirley Jones? B.J. Eden, N.Y.

The late actor was 51 when he perished in a fire. Shirley Jones is at present 44 years of age.

OH, JACKIE -- I have a big favor to ask you. I'm crazy about British actress Jacqueline Bisset. I know she's been in a number of films. It would be a big help if you could list any other major film roles she's had so I could watch for them on the tube. I've been going bananas trying to find out on my own. L. Fuller, Erie, Pa.

For space sake I cut your list, but here are the films you've missed. "Two for the Road" (1967); "The Sweet Ride" (67); "The Detective" (68); "The First Time" (68); "Airport" (69); "Believe in Me" (71); "Secrets" (71); "Judge Roy Bean" (72); "Stand Up and Be Counted" (72); and such foreign films as "The First Time" and "La Nuit Americaine," which was released here as "Day for Night."

SUSPICIOUS -- Please settle a family discussion. Was there ever a TV program called "Suspicion"? If so, who starred in it? Thank you. J. Lovallo, Oakville, Conn.

There was an anthology series in the 50's called "Suspicion", but it did not have a regular cast. Warren Beatty was listed among the actors who appeared on the various melodramatic outings. During the same period there was also, "Destiny," "Conflict," "Panic," "Pursuit and Decision."

STOOGE STUFF -- Could you tell me something about the Three Stooges? Weren't there really more than three over the years? Andy Johnson, Kansas City, Kan.

Moe Howard first joined vaudeville headliner Ted Healy in 1922. Soon his two older brothers, Larry and Sam, called Shemp, joined the act, and after a number of name changes became Ted Healy and His Three Stooges. Healy went on as a single when the Stooges began making pictures. They made their film debut in "Soup to Nuts" (1930), and then went to MGM for a few features. By then Shemp left to go on as a single, and the youngest brother, Jerry, whom the family called Babe, but became known to Stooges fans as Curly, joined the group. In 1946 he left the trio because of illness and Shemp returned. Curly died in 1952. Shemp died suddenly in 1955, and was replaced first by Joe Besser for three years, and then Joe De Rita. But it was obvious to all their fans that neither really fit in. They still made an occasional feature, but none were as good or successful as the 190 shorts they made from the 30's to 50's. Larry died in January of 1975, and Moe in May of '75.

FISHY FANS -- Where can I write to Patrick Duffy from Man from Atlantis? Would you also tell me how the show is doing in the ratings? Cherie Hoefs, Moorhead, Minn.

Funny you should ask. I've just been notified that there's a Patrick Duffy fan club, which you might want to join. It's Patrick Duffy Association of Fans (PDAF), c/o Nancy Hancock, 14 Poplar Circle, Gulfport, Miss. 39501. A stamped, self-addressed envelope must be sent for a reply. The series has not risen very high in the ratings, but hasn't yet been doomed to a watery death.

ROLLIN' -- What kind of a bike do the guys on CHIPs ride? Larry Auletta, Fargo, N.D.

It's a Kawasaki 900, the lighter of two models used by the California Highway Patrol.

Next time you read the Bible and see the word "corn," you should know that what it really means is wheat or barley. These were the only two grains cultivated in Biblical times. Corn (or maize) is native to America.

Leander will vote again on $5 million school bond

The Leander school board voted Tuesday to recall the $5,085,000 bond issue that was defeated on December 3 by 119 votes.

THE NEW election will be held on February 18.

The board voted 6-0 to recall the election, with member Benton Beard abstaining.

The election will be to finance a new high school and athletic facilities.

SEVERAL board members and persons in the audience agreed Tuesday that it is important for trustees to choose a site for the high school before the next election.

One audience member said that many people voted no in the last election because they couldn't approve a high school without knowing where it will be located.

The board is still searching for a site for the new school. Locations being considered are south of Leander, closer to the rapidly growing subdivisions near Cedar Park.

Beard said that the only bond issue he will support is for a new junior high.

LEANDER VOTERS have turned down three bond issues during the past two years by increasingly smaller margins.

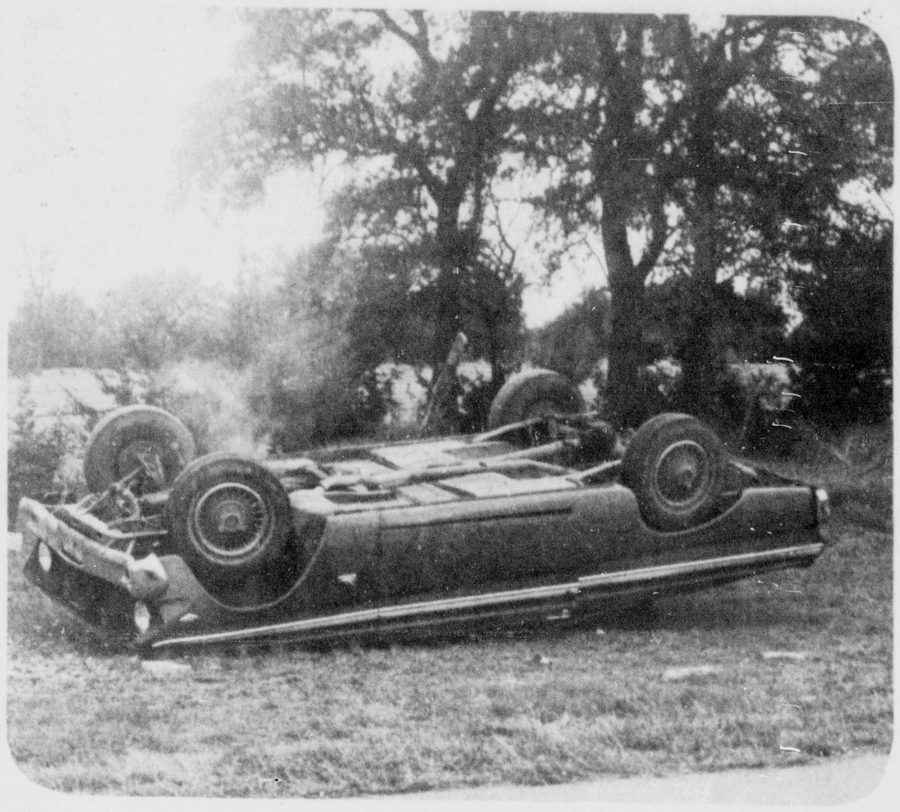
If the bond election passes, the tax assessment for area residents will go from $1.53 tp $1.97 per $100 of assessed valuation. The assessment ratio would remain 79 percent of market value.

The school district, which had just 859 students in 1970, has grown to the present enrollment of 2,300. Projections, based partially on new housing starts in the area, show that the district will have 3,000 students in the next three years.

THE $5 MILLION bond issue defeated in the last election included over $4 million for a new high school.

According to a pamphlet put out by the school board, the high school would be designed for 1,200 students initially and could be expanded later to include 2,000 students.

Athletic facilities included in the bond issue are a football field with seating for 5,000, lights, field and track.



SHINY SIDE DOWN — This 1965 Ford Falcon, driven by O. H. (Oscar) Kinniburgh of Liberty Hill, flipped Thursday about two miles west of Georgetown on Highway 29 but Kinniburgh escaped with only a slight cut. Local firemen were called to the scene to prevent a possible fire caused by leaking gasoline. (Photo by Steve Golub)

GRASS FIRE — The latest of a series of fires in Georgetown occurred Thursday afternoon when a grass fire was reported between San Gabriel Heights and Interstate 35. Firemen fight the flames in an attempt to save the shed in the background and keep the fire from spreading to several nearby homes in the edge of the subdivision. (Photo by Wilbur Callaway)

J. C. Strahan is on LCRA team

Eli Mayfield, chairman of the Board of Directors today appointed a five-member, ad hoc committee to draw up proposed guidelines which would govern the conduct of LCRA employees and board members in their business contacts with individuals and firms doing business with the Authority.

Named chairman of the committee was John Nash, Jr., of Austin. Other members are: J. C. Strahan, Burnet; Milton Tate, Brenham: Tom Dean, Cherokee; and John Hancock, El Campo.

Martin grad at Lackland

Airman First Class John D. Martin, son of P. R. Martin of 2600 New York, NW, Albuquerque, N.M., has graduated at Lackland AFB, from the U. S. Air Force technical training course for electronic communications and cryptographic equipment systems repairmen.

Airman Martin, now trained to operate and repair specialized communications equipment, is being assigned to Minot AFB, N.D., for duty with a unit of the Air Force Communications Service. Completion of the course earned the individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman is a 1975 graduate of Highland High School. His mother, Mrs. Mary J. Robertson, resides in Florence.

Series is appearing about Cen-Tex blacks

A new book for young students was recently published by Callcott-Collinson, Inc., of the Stevenson Press, Austin, it has been announced by Mary Virginia (Callcott) and Bob Collinson, Mrs. Collinson is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Callcott of Georgetown.

The small publication is one of a National History Series, and is called "Let's Pretend: Mae Dee and Her Family Go to Town," by Ada DeBlanc Simond of Austin.

The author has done previous editorial and historical work on the black heritage of the central Texas area, and has put together short stories of a black family, detailing their experiences in everyday life. The historical material is accurate, as are photographs of real life people. The plot has been fictionalized.

For use in schools, a teacher's guide has been prepared for use of the "Let's Pretend" issue, and a guide will accompany each of the successive publications in this series. Two of the books to appear soon include "Let's Pretend: Mae Dee and Her Family on a Weekend in May" and "Let's Pretend: Mae Dee and Her Family Join the Juneteenth Celebration."

Further information can be obtained from The Stevenson Press, Box 3949, Austin 78764.

Lend an ear to this, but don't try to pronounce it. The ancient Aztecs celebrated the corn harvest with elaborate rituals during a time dubbed by these master linguists as "Tlacaxipehualiztli."

LET'S NOT FORGET THIS . . .

"And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins." Matthew 1:21.

For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

"For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through him might be saved." John 3:16, 17.

We invite you to celebrate the birth of our Saviour by attending church this week, and by spreading good will everywhere you go.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

JANE REYNOLDS

Monday afternoon some young people brought tables, chairs, cabinets, dishes, and other odd things into the first floor living room and began arranging them. The Round Rock High School Senior Class Drama Group was preparing to present a play, "The Visitor", as adapted by Ford Ainsworth. An appreciative crowd was present and pronounced that the play was extremely well done. The players were perceptive and reverent in their interpretation of their respective parts. What a blessing the performance was to us all! I personally was quite moved by it. Following the performance, the actors presented beautiful flowers to their teacher for "all the things she has taught us." Teri Leight, Cindy Mercer, Juli Browning, Susan O'Brien, Bill Powers, Scott Pierce, Corky Hilsabeck, Meg Wright, were the students. Their teacher and director is Tere Myers.

At 7:30 p.m. the Georgetown High School Fellowship of Christian Athletes came caroling. Led by their coach, David Greeno, about fifty boys and girls came into the living room on first floor. What a good-looking, good-humored crowd! They sang Christmas hymns and songs and then went up the stairs to sing on the other floors. As they went upstairs, I learned that another coach was also with them, Mike Clardy. There were too many of them for introductions, but each one of them was welcome.

Mrs. Lela Mae Ischy's visitors this past week were Mrs. Patterson of Georgetown; her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ischy of Lago Vista; Mr. John McKnight of Florida, and Mrs. M. H. Robinson and Miss Eunice Rader, both of Georgetown.

Miss Lola Wales attended a family dinner at the Georgetown Inn Sunday. Nineteen members of the Wales family were present. After dinner all went to the home of a niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Oran P. Davis, where they spent the afternoon visiting and watching the football games.

The indigenous cedar tree dedicated in Miss Leila Morse's memory was planted on the lawn of the Wesleyan in ceremonies Tuesday afternoon. Because of the extremely cold wind, the scripture and prayer were read in the living room, then the Morse family and friends moved to the northeast lawn, the spot selected by Mr. Steve Stephenson as the place where the tree would be most likely to prosper and where its beauty would be enjoyed by the most people. It is a perfectly symmetrical, graceful little tree, looking more like a pine than the cedars we are most familiar with, a tree which does justice to the memory of a lovely lady.

One of the laundresses, Helen Langdon, who washed the clothes of nursing patients in our laundry room, took her money received from the residents Christmas fund and turned it back to the office to buy underclothes, gowns, and pajamas for those patients. She worries when she sees that many of their clothes wear out from such frequent washings, and she asked the Lord to help her buy them some new ones, she said. She would be embarrassed to see this in print; I think it is a beautiful story we all need to hear. Such love as Helen's and others on the staff make this "home" a real home.

The Rainbow Assembly sponsored the December Birthday party on fourth floor. Birthday celebrants this month are: Aura Todd, Larue McClain, Lillian Phinizy, Ellen Burklund, Lucille Edmondson, Beulah Foster, Myra Denzer, George Taylor, Mallie McCrary, Stella Tegge, Mae Bowman, Golde Culberson, Melvola Hodges, Ethel Irby, Fern Knecht, Lillie Moerner, and Cora Terry. Three of them, Mmes. Culberson, Hodges, and Irby, were born on Christmas Day. The hostesses included Colette Cupples, Alice Grapski, Linda Grapski, Bridget Cupples, Karen Smith, Christy Mason, Colleen Whorral, Terri Glasscock, Kiz Tomasulo, and Lydia Tomasulo. They had made balls of red yarn, one for each resident, with a name on it, and a small Christmas tree on which to put them. They went from room to room with the tree, sang to each patient, and helped each one put the decoration on the tree. Those gathered in the parlor on fourth also received decorations and special songs. These are most thoughtful and loving young women!

Family Planning Clinic offices at 710 Rock St.

The Family Planning Clinic has moved its offices in Georgetown to a location two blocks west of the Courthouse, at 710 Rock Street, in the old locker plant.

Linda Byers, director of the Clinic, reminds those interested in obtaining information or assistance from their staff, that the Clinic is open every weekday, Monday through Friday from 8 until 5.

The Clinic will be closed on Monday, December 26, and Monday, January 2, for official holidays.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Sewella Fortner of Crosbie will spend the Christmas Holidays here in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hoffman and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Stidham and family.

Miss Nancy Sams, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Tom Sams Ret. has returned to her home here in Georgetown after spending a year in Germany.

2 books given to library

Xi Xi Nu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi began the Christmas season Dec. 2 with an evening at the Country Dinner Playhouse in Austin. Husbands and a few invited guests joined the members.

Tuesday evening, Dec. 13, a short business meeting was held at the residence of Ms. Nancy Webb in Austin. It was learned at this meeting the titles of the two books the sorority purchased to donate to the Georgetown Public Library in honor of Roselle Shelby who moved to a Preceptor chapter from this one.

The books now available to the public are Law of Medicine Malpractice in Texas and Texas Homes of the Nineteenth Century.

Following the business meeting gifts were exchanged and secret sisters for the past year were revealed. Refreshments were enjoyed by all.

A Key To A Home Is A Key To Happiness

Food bargains listed for holidays

Mid-holiday food bargains at Texas grocery markets appear on fryer chickens, citrus fruits, some dairy items—and onions and potatoes, reports Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

POULTRY — Fryer chicken prices are down slightly, and some markets offer them as "features." Mid-holiday turkey prices are slightly higher than they were before Thanksgiving and hen-turkey supplies are short due to heavy demand at Thanksgiving. However, a few stores are featuring all sizes.

FRESH FRUITS — Tangerines and tangelos are at their peak. Temple oranges are just starting their season, so expect improved supplies in the next two weeks. Navel oranges are improving in supplies and prices. Grapefruit quality is outstanding — with moderate prices.

Other good fruit choices are grapes, bananas, apples, pears and avocados.

FRESH VEGETABLES — Onions and potatoes are the best buys. Look for firm, or hard, dry onions with small necks, and choose well-shaped potatoes that are free from defects, sunburn (greening) and decay.

Fresh corn has attractive prices for this season of the year.

Other economical buys are hard-shell squash, sweet potatoes, carrots, cabbage, broccoli, celery, rutabagas and cooking greens.

DAIRY COUNTERS — Special prices appear on milk, half-and-half, sour cream, yogurt and a variety of cheeses.

BEEF — Chuck cuts are "features" in some markets. Other attractive-price items are ground beef, round, sirloin and rib steaks. Rib roasts, however, have higher-than-usual prices due to heavy demand.

PORK — Supplies are down, so prices are higher than forecast for this time of year.

However, scattered features are Boston butt roasts, quarter-loins cut into chops, rib-end roasts and chops, liver, smoked picnics and ham portions, frankfurters and bacon.

FROZEN FOOD COUNTERS — Frozen fish packs offer wide selections, easy preparation and economical protein food choices.

HOLIDAY WATCHWORDS: A two-part plan to stretch the 1978 food budget makes an economical New Year's Resolution: know "why" when you buy, and use leftovers to protect the food budget.

Supplementary income available

Federal Supplemental Security Income payments are available to persons with limited income who are 65 or older or who are under 65 and blind or disabled. In addition to limited income, there are limits on resources, or assets. Things you own such as cash, bank accounts, insurance policies, automobiles and property other than your own home may be counted as resources. An individual may have resources worth up to $1,500 and still be eligible for SSI payments. A couple may have resources worth up to $2,250. To see if you might be eligible for SSI payments, contact the Austin Social Security Office located at 2301 South Congress or call 397-5771.

People from Georgetown and Taylor may dial the operator and ask for Enterprise 8-6799.

An exquisite gift plant! How to make it survive?

By LOIS W. PATTERSON

You answer the doorbell and are presented with an exquisite gift plant. Absolutely magnificent. You ooh and ah and then quietly panic. How to make it survive?

IF IT'S A BLOOMER such as poinsettia, tulips or kalanchoe, most probably it's been forced under ideal conditions of temperature and humidity in a greenhouse. The result is that the plant has no reserve strength and is also stressed — a handy excuse if it dies in the dryness of your heated house.

But it needn't. While it's in this stage of pristine perfection, enjoy! Enjoy! But remember, plants, like fully grown goriilas, were not intended by their Creator to live in a house. So try to duplicate insofar as possible outdoor conditions.

Locate non-bloomers such as ivies, dracenas and rubber plants in good, strong light. Blooming plants need several hours of direct sun each day. Whatever yours is, make sure it's placed away from heating ducts and out of drafts. Use an old Windex bottle or something similar to mist your plant two or three times daily. And water it carefully. What's carefully? Well, in two words, avoid overwatering, the greatest single cause of potted plant losses. Always test with your finger to determine whether the soil is dry before you water. The suggestion from here is: When in doubt, don't.

As soon as you can bear to do so, remove the decorative wrapping from the pot. Air circulation around the plant will be better, and so will drainage. There are those who feel such wrappings detract from rather than enhance the plant, anyway. Gilding the lily, as it were.

WHEN THE COLORFUL blossoms have passed on to their happy-growing-ground, what to do? Few potted bloomers except chrysanthemums adapt well in the landscape, so just set the pot(s) outside somewhere behind a more attractive plant and see what happens.

Foliage plants — dumb cane, schefflera, ficus and so on — will beautify your home and grow in value for years if their needs are met.

All plants, from mosses to redwood trees, have the same basic requirements; light, water, proper temperature and plant food. Experimentation is the best teacher of how much of what for which plant, and when.

So get acquainted with your new Holiday gift plant. Either love it or hate it, but don't ignore it. Plants love association with people and respond with more vigor and better growth. People benefit from this association, also. Plant tending brings out their finer qualities of gentleness, caring and appreciation of beauty.

Emergency loans for farmers approved by agriculture

Williamson County's farmers had welcome news from Senator John Tower and Congressman J. J. "Jake" Pickle this week, news that Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland has approved emergency assistance to the area.

The Department of Agriculture, Senator Tower said, has indicated that loan applications may be received through June 6, 1978 for physical losses, and December 8, 1978, for production losses from eligible farmers.

"Further information can be obtained through the local County supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration serving Williamson County," Tower added.

Domel gains B.S. degree

Gary Alan Domel of Georgetown was among 135 undergraduates and 27 graduate students at Tarleton State University of Stephenville to receive degrees at winter commencement exercises held in Wisdom Gym on the TSU campus Dec. 18.

Domel received a B.S. in Industrial Education.

Speaker for the commencement was Dr. Barry Thompson, a former Tarleton student, who is now vice president for academic affairs at East Texas State University.

Long party, too

Cedar Park robbery suspect arrested at air force base

Two suspects believed involved in the November 20 armed robbery of country singer B. W. Stevenson and his wife in Cedar Park have been arrested for a robbery in Dallas.

Woodrow Barnes, 32, of Rockwall, was arrested by Dallas County Sheriff's deputies Wednesday at a Bergstrom Air Force Base residence.

TWO GUNS found in Barnes' possession may be linked to the Stevenson robbery, said Williamson County Sheriff A. O. Schier.

Barnes was arrested for the armed robbery of a Farmers Branch jeweler. The other three arrested Wednesday for the same robbery were Richard Allen Redrick, 29, a staff sergeant at Bergstrom Air Force Base and Barnes's cousin; Gary Moore, 28, of Dallas; and Larry Girrard, 28, of Dallas.

Barnes has also been charged in connection with the March 25 robbery and murder of a Dallas man believed to have been involved in the purchase of $2,000 worth of marijuana.

HE HAS been held in lieu of $200,000 bond in the robbery case and $50,000 in the murder case.

Barnes is the prime suspect in the November 20 armed robbery of Stevenson.

Stevenson and his wife Barbara were robbed at gunpoint at their Cedar Park home on November 20.

During that robbery one of the two bandits slipped and called the other one Woody. The one called Woody also called Barbara Stevenson by her first name, the Stevenson's told Sheriff's deputies.

STEVENSON said that he did know someone named Woody Barnes from Rockwall.

One of the other three men arrested for the Dallas robbery is also suspected of helping in the Stevenson robbery.

USE YOUR EGG-NOGGIN

If you're beginning to feel as if your repast repertoire is as flat as a pancake, create a treat that can give a holiday flavor to almost any meal.

READY EGGNOG

2 quarts dairy eggnog, chilled
1 quart Bourbon or whiskey, chilled
1/4 cup dark rum, chilled
1 cup cream, whipped
Nutmeg

Combine eggnog, whiskey and rum. Fold in whipped cream. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Makes about 30 punch cup servings, 4 ounces each.

JUMBO EGGNOG CREPES

1 cup flour
2 1/2 cups Ready Eggnog
2 tablespoons butter
Pinch salt

Stir flour and eggnog together to make a batter the consistency of heavy cream. Heat a 10-inch skillet, melt butter. Coat the skillet and pour the excess butter into the batter. Pour 1/2 cup batter into the skillet and roll and tip the pan to spread the batter evenly on the pan. Turn once to brown both sides; remove to a plate and keep warm. Repeat, making 6 crepes in all. Put a spoonful of filling in the center of each crepe and fold into a cornucopia. Serve with whipped cream or sour cream and pecans or other nuts.

Hill offers advice on returning gifts

When Georgetown area people have to return some of their Christmas gifts, they may do well to heed advice of Attorney General John L. Hill, who explains some of the legal angles in his weekly column, "The Consumer Alert." Below are his suggestions:

When the family settles down after Christmas, usually at least one family member will have to return a present because of poor fit or duplication.

Store clerks have learned to expect a rash of post-Christmas visitors with gift packages in hand.

Most consumers are able to return or exchange their gifts with little or no trouble, except fighting the crowds.

But attorneys in our Consumer Protection Division point out that stores are not legally obligated to refund money, exchange merchandise, or accept returned goods for store credit unless an item is defective or is not as represented.

As a courtesy of customers, however, most stores are very accommodating about such matters. There are, of course, some stores (often in large chains) which are unable to make a gift exchange or give a refund or credit because of store policy.

Our lawyers recommend that consumers inquire about a store's policy before purchasing a gift that may have to be returned later. For example, a store may refuse to accept a returned item if the merchandise was on sale when it was bought.

Of course, if the store made an error, such as sending a size 44 regular jacket when the order specified a size 44 long, the store is required to correct the mistake.

It should also be remembered that personal or intimate items such as underwear, earrings for pierced ears, and some cosmetics are usually always sold on a no refund-no exchange basis.

If you receive a Christmas gift or a gift for any occasion that you need to return, follow these guidelines from our attorneys:

—Take the item to the department it was purchased in or to the "return" office and explain the reason for returning the gift.

—Take all sales or charge slips, hang tags, and labels with you when you return the item to the store.

—Save the box or container the item came in so you can return the goods in it.

—Never wait more than a month to return something and don't make an attempt to return goods that are worn or used.

—Always be aware of the store's policy on gift exchange and refund.

If you have a problem returning a Christmas gift, make an attempt to settle it with the store management. If that doesn't prove successful, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division in Austin, Dallas, San Antonio, Houston, Lubbock, El Paso, or McAllen. If you live outside these areas, call toll-free: 1-800-252-9236.

Essay describes patriotism

Patriotism is sometimes thought of as a lost feeling among Americans but within the confines of one Georgetown organization the value of dedication to one's country is evident.

The following essay is actually the program presented to the December 10 meeting of the Daniel Coleman chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution by Mrs. Edith Caswell.

—o—

We have long recognized in our great organization the need for broad educational programs, a dedication to our country and the preservation of our great historic treasures — among which the Declaration of Independence remains the blueprint for our way of life.

We also realize that the hope of tomorrow's world lies in today's young people.

Love of country, respect for the flag and belief in the Constitution can not be bought for our children.

Each generation needs to be taught that this nation did not become great over night.

Our forefathers suffered and many died that we might have the freedoms which they felt were necessary for man's happiness — succeeding generations have preserved these freedoms which have made this nation great.

The greatest responsibility of our generation is to give to our youth of today a firm foothold on the values of Americanism.

Our destiny should be to provide leadership for the future — ever remembering our gratitude to our predecessors by continuing to carry out the responsibilities of citizenship.

In view of today's challenges to youth you, perhaps, are wondering how Good Citizenship can help you find your place in the world.

It can help you because Good Citizenship in the United States today is not a one way street.

In no other nation in the world today does the opportunity for a young person to achieve success and enjoy the profit of his or her work exist more than in the United States.

And what is your obligation to be a Good Citizen?

I can not improve on D.A.R. qualifications — Dependability, Service, Leadership and Patriotism — Dependability, Service Leadership, and Patriotism — Three words tell the story. The first is love, the second is perseverance and the third respect.

By the first I mean love of God and Country, and your fellowman so that you fulfill Jesus Commandment, "Love Thy Neighbor as Thyself."

By the second I mean never to dispair. Abraham Lincoln failed eleven times in his political career, and yet because he believed in himself and his principles, he did become President of the United States.

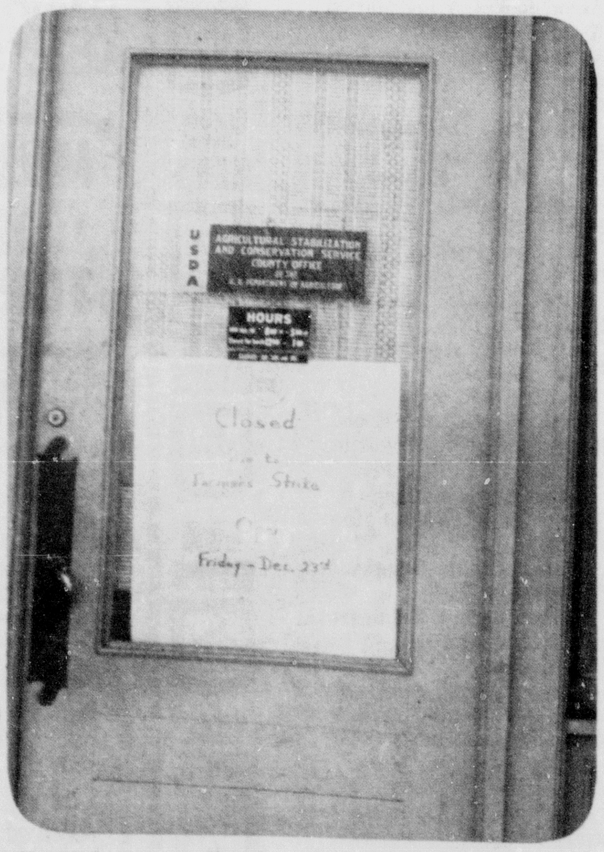
The third is respect. By respect I mean the fulfillment of the Commandment, "Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother."

And don't confuse the virtues that make you the Good Citizen and a good woman, with weakness.

It has always required the greatest strength of character to practice virtue and to be mature enough to smile at those who are so lacking in understanding.

And there is one more obligation — you have and this is where you do have a choice — for better or for worse.

You must develop your skills. You must train yourself for a trade or a business — you must be prepared when the opportunity presents itself and the qualities of Good Citizenship, Love of people, perserverance and respect will take you a long way.



CLOSED — Leon Shrank, administrator for the federal farm programs in Williamson County, closed the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Office on Austin Avenue in Georgetown Thursday in support of the local agricultural strike.

"We were approached by a delegation of county farmers in the American Agriculture movement," said Shrank. "They asked that the office be closed in support of the movement for higher prices."

Shrank said that higher-ups in the U. S. Department of Agriculture told local offices they could cooperate if asked to close for a day in support of the strike.

Open House at First National

Open houses and office parties were much in evidence around Georgetown this week, with one of the nicest taking place at First National Bank. The public was invited to partake of excellent "grazing" and get acquainted with new officers and employees of the bank which recently was sold by the long-time owners.

J. B. McDuff, one of the new owners, has a lively conversation with Jay Sloan. Everette Williams is in the foreground and Elvin Gentry is the man on the right. Almost hidden is Mrs. McDuff.

Larry Simpson, left, and Doak Fling, chief administrative officer of the bank, trade pleasantries.

"Now, let's see what's in here," Frank Faris may be saying.

James Murdock, Mrs. Dale Illig and Dale himself were among those present and eating.

Compton Motor Company was well represented, with Don Hewlett, big boss J. H. "Buster" Compton and Glynn enjoying the affair.

County treasurer Viola Honeycutt and Gertrude Bohac.

Ed Komandosky and the missus were here from the City National Bank of Taylor which Ed serves in public relations work.

Mopsie Mikeska, Miriam Kalmbach, and Martha Hollan trade recipes.

Lois Jean Forswall and Mrs. Pauline Berkman sample the fare.

Margaret Wachsmann, J. B. McDuff and Barbara Berkman were busy with the visitors.

Mrs. Swit, on the left, Paul Goode and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Scott were enjoying the affair.

Wade Sullivan, C. N. Sullivan, Sr., and ex-mayor Rawleigh Elliott share a serious moment in the general gaiety.

Unemployment insurance set for agricultural workers

Some Georgetown Area agricultural employers will have to start paying unemployment insurance on their employees beginning next January 1, says a sociologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dr. David C. Ruesink explains the two principle means of coverage for agricultural employers. Employers who hire 10 or more workers at least one day a week in each of 20 weeks in a calendar year or who have a total payroll equal to or greater than $20,000 in any calendar quarter will be required to provide unemployment insurance coverage on their workers.

Premiums will be 3.4 per cent on the first $6,000 of each employee's wages during the first year-and-a-half to two years, explains Ruesink. Then an experience rating will be applied under which the minimum premium under the present law would be .8 percent and the maximum would be 4.7 percent, depending on the number of claims against the employer's unemployment insurance account.

There are two situations where work may be performed but employees are not counted as part of the agricultural employer's work force: (1) Agricultural workers who have a crew leader who holds a valid certificate of registration under the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act of 1963 will be considered as employees of the crew; (2) Workers who are part of a crew doing custom work because they are considered as working for the custom operator.

Any agricultural employer who has questions about unemployment insurance may contact the nearest Texas Employment Commission Office, suggests Ruesink.

SEGURO DE DESEMPLEO PARA TRABAJADORES AGRICOLAS

COLLEGE STATION – Algunos individuos que empleen personas para trabajar en la agricultura van a tener que empezar a pagar seguro de desempleo para sus empleados empezando el primero de enero del año que viene, dice un sociologo del Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

El Dr. David C. Ruesink explica los dos medios principales de seguro para los empleos agrícolas. Los individuos que contraten 10 o más trabajadores por lo menos un día a la semana por 20 semanas en un año o que pagan más de $20,000 por trabajo en cualquier cuarto de año calendario (cuatro meses), se les va a exigir que provean seguro de desempleo.

Las primas van a ser 3.4 por ciento en los primeros $6,000 del sueldo de cada empleado durante el primero año y medio hasta dos años, explica Ruesink. Entonces se aplicará una clasificación de experiencia bajo la cual la prima mínima bajo la ley actual sería de .8 por ciento y la máxima sería 4.8 por ciento, dependiendo del número de reclamos contra la cuenta de seguro de desempleo del empleado.

Hay dos situaciones donde se puede hacer el trabajo pero los empleados no cuentan como parte de la fuerza laboral agrícola del dueño: (1) los trabajadores agrícolas que tengan un jefe del grupo que tengan un certificado valido de registro bajo el Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act de 1963 se considerarán como empleados del jefe, (2) los trabajadores que son parte de un grupo que esté haciendo trabajo especial (custom work) porque ellos se consideran como que están trabajando para el jefe del trabajo especializado.

Cualquier empleado agrícola que tenga preguntas acerca del seguro de desempleo puede ponerse en contacto con la oficina del Texas Employment Commission más cercana, sugiere Ruesink.

burned before firemen could subdue the flames.

Bunte, pointing out that the fire department would like to be notified anytime someone starts an outdoor fire, said, "If they would let us know when they were going to burn something, we could avoid a lot of mistaken alarms. People drive by and see someone burning trash and call us and we have to respond to the alarm a lot of times when it is not necessary."

THE NUMBER to call, incidentally, to report a fire emergency is 863-2555, while non-emergency calls should be made to 863-5880.

The final, and most serious, structure fire of the week occurred Wednesday night when the home of Mrs. Mable Davis at 105 W. Valley Street was gutted by flames about 11 p.m.

"The structure was probably a total loss," Bunte says, "although we did manage to save a lot of her personal belongings such as clothing, kitchen wares and some furniture. Some of the furniture did burn, however."

During this fire, one of the fire trucks had a mechanical problem, which was repaired the next day, and Bunte says, "the problem we had really didn't have any effect on our putting out the fire, since the house was already pretty well gone before we got there."

HE INDICATED that faulty wiring in a television set was suspected as the start of the fire.

Another grass fire broke out Thursday afternoon between San Gabriel Heights and Interstate 35, clouding the south fork of the San Gabriel River and a stretch of the interstate highway in smoke.

The fire, which was close to a row of homes in the northeast edge of the housing addition, was quickly put out by the firemen, who must have been getting weary by that time.

Prior to that grass fire, firemen answered a call for an automobile which had flipped about two miles west of Georgetown on Highway 29, with leaking gasoline presenting a fire hazard.

THE CAR, a 1965 Ford Falcon driven by O. H. (Oscar) Kinniburgh of Liberty Hill, had been headed west when its tires dropped off the edge of the road into gravel and he over-compensated, crossed to the other side of the highway and turned over, skidding several feet and smashing in the top of his car.

Kinniburgh was taken to Georgetown M&S Hospital by a passing motorist and treated for a head cut and released. Highway Department trooper Ernie Fochs of Georgetown investigated the accident.

Ticket sales open Tues. for banquet

Georgetown Chamber of Commerce banquet tickets will be on sale beginning Tuesday, December 27, from the Chamber offices or through a member of the Chamber Board of Directors, Mrs. Vivian Wood announced today.

"We've picked a special day for our annual banquet this year — Friday the 13th of January, and hope we'll have an enthusiastic attendance," Mrs. Wood comments.

The affair will be held in the Commons at Southwestern University at 7 p.m. James Harwell of the Texas Industrial Commission at Austin will be the banquet speaker and Mearl Leffler has been selected as master of ceremonies.

Tickets are priced $6.00 each.

The meal will be served buffet style, enabling people to be served more quickly than in the past, Chamber officials have decided.

Minor matters plague police

Minor matters have involved Georgetown Police this week, Chief Travis Thomas reported Friday morning.

During the past week, two juveniles were involved in a check theft at Southwestern University, but the checks, which were blank, were recovered.

Several cases of drunk driving, and one case of a person threatening another, have also been processed at Police Headquarters.

Thursday night, a ring was reported stolen from an unlocked car parked in the lot at the Georgetown Hospital. It had not been recovered a presstime, Thomas said.

About 50 percent of female family heads are divorced or separated, about 33 percent are widowed, and the rest never married, reports Dorthy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

POINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS
Fix It Yourself For Safety & Economy

EMERGENCIES — LEAKY PIPES

If you're the average homeowner, learning what to do when you have a leaky pipe can save you many dollars in damages to your home.

The first step is to shut off the water supply to the break. Make it a rule to know where the shutoff valves in your house or apartment are located. Valves are often under or near plumbing fixtures. The hot water supply for the entire house can generally be turned off at the hot water heater. If necessary, cut off all water in the house by closing the main water valve.

SHUT OFF OR SHIP OUT— The main shutoff will turn off all water in an emergency.

A good do-it-yourself manual will usually show you how to make emergency repairs. One that does this in clear, concise language has been compiled by the editors of Reader's Digest with the help of experts in every field. The "Fix-It-Yourself Manual" shows you how to fix 1,001 things that can go wrong around the house, and is available at bookstores.

★RESERVE OFFICERS

the regular police force. The local police force must be getting a lot of "augmentation" because Roger has already put in 40 hours duty this month.

The volunteer unpaid job is a challenge for Roger. There's a bit of occasional excitment, it's markedly similar to his military life in regimentation, and it's a public service position in which he feels he's "out doing something beneficial for everyone."

Forty hours volunteered — the reserve officers choose their own date and hours of work — adds up to double in motivation, but it's Roger's opinion that all the people involved in the course were highly motiviated individuals, and a highly select group in the sense that the law enforcement field with its seamy and sad side is a deterrent in itself to people considering career opportunities.

Walt Myers, who looks more like a horse and ranch dude than anything else with his boots, feathered hat and sheepskin jacket, has been waiting for years — since he was a kid, in fact — for a chance to try out a police officer's uniform. Georgetown's Police Chief, Travis Thomas, offered him a reserve officer's training slot, and according to Walt, "I jumped at the chance to get as much training as possible and stay as current as possible with everyday activities (of the police department)."

Walt had 12 years of military experience all over the world and was part of a rescue team for the NASA moon mission; he was retired early with a disability in '72.

He views law enforcement and the military as parallel professions; both uniform, both with rules and guidelines.

His graduation from the Reserve Officer's Training Course marked his first state certification, and this January he'll attend Central Texas College, Killeen, to take an associate degree in criminal justice.

The police officer's role to Walt is not one of passing judgement on a citizen, but rather one of protecting the citizen, and controlling potentially dangerous situations. Says Walt: "A policeman doesn't necessarily have to issue a citation or make an arrest every time out. There are extenuating circumstances which need to be considered in all cases."

Lke Chuck and Roger, Walt has also tallied 40 hours since being sworn in, mostly patrolling during evening hours, but sometime in the future he hopes there's a fulltime job available for him in Georgetown.

Charles Reagan works for the local phone company, but says he finds his off-duty volunteer hours as a reserve officer "a way to be associated with the police department, yet keep my present position."

He's been indirectly associated with law enforcement people all of his life, has always been pro law enforcement, and in a sense, is now fulfilling a lifelong desire.

He views the role of a reserve officer as being a protective arm of the regular police force. His job: to serve the community and take the appropriate action for a violation. The judgement, he says, should be left up to the courts.

All 4 reserve officers have high praise for the training course and instructors, and consider themselves particularly fortunate to have come across 4 people so supportive of one another.

You'll see them working with a regular police officer in a kind of on-the-job training program. Then they'll be out on their own with the full responsibilities and authority of a regularly certified police officer, augmenting the Georgetown Police Department's service to the community.

★PULLING HAIR

My husband Hiram noted there was no way those trees would have been bulldozed in New York City — some group or the city itself would have filed suit against McDonald's to show cause why those trees should be destroyed. This delaying tactic would give people an opportunity to organize and to do some heavy dealing.

UNFORTUNATELY, there is ample evidence to show that one fast food establishment soon leads to another, which leads to a strip, which can blight huge sections of a city, esthetically and ultimately, economically. If people in Georgetown are concerned about the destruction of a few fine old trees, they should give some serious thought to the question of whether to allow any more fast-food chains (and remember, McDonald's is probably the best of the bunch) to sprout like Johnson grass in their back yards.

Create an exciting centerpiece

A beautiful setting adds glamour to holiday entertaining and serves as a colorful accent to your table and menu. Seasonal decorations are easy to put together. Try one of these.

Stand red jumbo candles of varied heights in a group at the center of your table. Twine a garland of greens, oversized pine cones and nuts around them, extending the garland onto the table beyond the candles. Wire greens and pine cones together and using florist's clay, stick clusters of nuts together and attach.

For an attractive edible centerpiece, frost fresh fruit and arrange in a wicker basket or shaped bowl. Beat egg whites with a fork in a deep bowl, dip apples, pears, grape clusters and oranges; sprinkle well with granulated sugar and let dry. Line container with plastic wrap and arrange frosted fruit, using toothpicks if necessary to hold them together.

Scoop out a pumpkin that is a comfortable size for your table setting. Put a bowl of water in the pumpkin and arrange bright fresh flowers in it.

A unique gift for your home

Make a shadow box picture for your house from those extra special Christmas cards that you hate to throw away and left-over ties, stickers and labels. Combine them with snapshots of the family and glue onto cardboard. Pick up a shadow box frame at an art supply or frame shop, put your picture in, and it's ready to hang! A real conversation piece!

JOY TO ALL
Hoping your holiday will be warm and wonderful.

A Christmas Prayer

Let us pray that strength and courage abundant be given to all who work for a world of reason and understanding ✣ that the good that lies in every man's heart may day by day be magnified ✣ that men will come to see more clearly not that which divides them, but that which unites them ✣ that each hour may bring us closer to a final victory, not of nation over nation, but of man over his own evils and weaknesses ✣ that the true spirit of this Christmas Season—its joy, its beauty, its hope, and above all its abiding faith—may live among us ✣ that the blessings of peace be ours—the peace to build and grow, to live in harmony and sympathy with others, and to plan for the future with confidence.

In a lowly manger, hewn from the rocky hillside of Bethlehem, a Child was born . . . and herald angels sang. To the manger came humble shepherds, in wonder and rejoicing. Three Wise Men journeyed from the East, bearing precious gifts. And over all shone the miraculous light of a Star. In the words of the Christmas story, that light lives and shines across the ages, bringing hope and promise to all mankind. May the spiritual joys of the season bless you and yours, abundantly on this Christmas Day and forevermore.

We Wish For You & Yours A Very Merry Christmas & A Happy New Year.

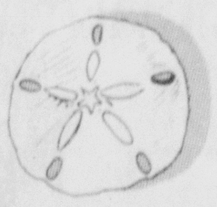
Legend of the Sand Dollar



These strange and beautiful shells tell the story of Christ's suffering and His glory. The Easter Lily shape at the center of the sand dollar represents the Star of Bethlehem which guided the shepherds from afar. The five holes represent the five wounds of Christ. On the back the Christmas Poinsettia, in outline, reminds us all of His birthday. Five Doves of Peace and Good Will appear when the shell is broken apart. This fascinating creature from the sea is referred to as The Holy Ghost Shell because of the legend attached to it.

The Lasting Beauty of A Live Christmas Tree

There are many reasons for choosing a live tree for the holidays. They are beautiful and fragrant. They are ecologically acceptable. They are a wise investment in that they can be planted outside your house once Christmas has become a beautiful memory. Some simple observations when choosing and buying your tree will eliminate the possibility of having it dry out quickly and the danger of fire.

The height of your ceiling and the width of the space the tree will occupy are important measurements to keep in mind when making your purchase. Plan to stand the tree away from a TV set, radiator, heating unit or duct. When selecting the tree test the needles for freshness by bending them back gently. If they spring back they're fresh . . . if not, beware!

Live trees consume a lot of water so choose a holder with at least a two quart capacity and keep it filled to within an inch of the rim at all times. The stand should have a collar several inches in diameter and screws to hold the tree firmly in place. Chop about an inch off the stump before putting the tree in water.

Trimming the Christmas tree is a celebration all itself! Many families have tree trimming parties for close friends and relatives. But before you get to all the fun make sure you inspect the light strings so there are no frayed ends or exposed wires. Lights can be strung at random or in any pattern your imagination conjures up. Keep larger and heavier lights and trimmings on the lower half of the tree, tapering toward the top.

That added bonus of being able to plant your tree outside your house will keep the spirit of the holidays alive all through the year. The tree can be planted outdoors in either of two ways. Keeping the root ball moist, carefully put the tree in a spot protected from the wind, to be planted in the Spring. If you've had the foresight to dig a hole for your tree before the ground froze, you can plant your tree right after the holidays are over. The dirt from the hole must be kept covered to keep it from freezing also. Once firmly set in the ground you'll be able to enjoy your Christmas tree every season of the year!

Warm Wishes
Hope your holiday is fit for a king! Thanks for your kind patronage.

"ALL ABOUT CHRISTMAS"

"It's like the inside of a Christmas stocking," said a delighted teen-ager of the unique gift shop in La Jolla, California, called "All About Christmas!"

The tiny shop, owned and run by Evelyn Killman, is a veritable treasure chest of Christmas delights. All the items displayed are fashioned by craftspeople, from all over the country. When Mrs. Killman first opened the shop most of her merchandise was made by local artisans, however as people in other parts of the United States heard about her venture, samples of handcrafts started to arrive from all over.

The only special requirements asked of these talented people, are that the workmanship be of expert quality and the item something that is associated with the holiday. The shop is busy the year round with tourists and local customers stopping by frequently to see what's new!

There are more different kinds of Christmas stockings than you ever dreamed of! You can order them knitted to order and personalized, a tradition in many families. Knitted stockings and slippers are available from adult sizes down to teeny-weeny ones for new-borns . . . the latter becoming tree ornaments after baby's first Christmas. There are some made from brightly colored crocheted Granny squares.

Among the most popular tree ornaments are starfish, angels and Santas made by teen-agers and bread-dough animals, football players and other figures molded by a schoolteacher. Mrs. Killman's mother crochets tiny ball tree ornaments together into Christmas leis.

There are many items for collectors of mice, owls and frogs made from felt, nuts or sea shells, wood, macrame, yarn and painted La Jolla beach stones. Tiny wooden kitchen tools are woven into small macrame hangings, and there are "hide-a-thing" wall plaques with secret compartments. Unique aprons, bean bags, handbags, stuffed dolls and animals, hand puppets cover the walls.

Smooth gourds are scooped out and fashioned into carolers with charming faces. You can have your choice of patchwork wrap skirts, handbags, and reversible table mats in exciting patterns and colors. Hand worked petit-point tree ornaments are unusual and lovely.

Crochet holiday dresses for infants can be ordered with or without a name embroidered on them. Diaper pin pillows are plump and pretty.

Visiting "All About Christmas" is an experience . . . its walls covered with bright gifts and the tables and counters crammed to overflowing. They really bedazzle the eye and fill the spirit. Though the shop is holiday oriented Mrs. Killman calls her treasures "Handmade gifts for all seasons and for all reasons."

Dear Sant Clues
I want a baby Alvie and center. Stan I want a calculater. And I want a pant sunt size 18½.

Santa Remembers Southpaws

Many designers are creating accessories and tools for left handed people. Increasingly aware of the problems southpaws encounter daily in a right handed world, they've come up with some special, new items. Keep these in mind for gifts . . . your left handed friends will love you!

Books are available for "lefties" who want to learn to knit, play the guitar or become adept at calligraphy. There's even a book just about southpaws! You'll find special scissors, left handed jar and can openers, pocket knives, address books and brushes for pet grooming, too!

Dear Santa,

My name is Malissa Endsley. I am seven years old and in second grade. My birthday is in October. How are you. I'm fine. I have a sister her name is Bonnie. She is eleven years old and in sixth grade.

A Word To The Wise... Selecting Safer Toys

Awareness on the part of holiday buyers can help eliminate needless accidents with flimsy or poorly constructed toys. These guidelines will help responsible Christmas shoppers make safe selections:

Be sure the toy is suitable to the child's age, and ability and that the instructions are easy to follow.

Toys that release small objects if broken are dangerous. Tiny toys or dolls with button eyes, or pieces that can come loose easily, should be avoided as gifts for younger children. A small child could choke on any of these.

Be on the alert for sharp edges and corners or pointed objects.

Small fingers could be trapped in small, tight spaces. Check for these.

Most toys, games and dolls are packaged by the time they reach the store. Examine the open sample carefully before making your selection. You'll be happy you did!

THE JOLLY MAN IN THE RED SUIT, ALIAS STEVE McINTIRE, TALKS TO LOCAL CHILDREN

A Spirited Tradition Home Made Wine Jelly

Wine jelly in handsomely decorated containers make really special and thoughtful holiday gifts. A graceful wine glass or shapely jar will be used and admired long after its contents are gone.

Multicolor yarn swirled round 'n' round and glued onto a lid makes a bright touch of decoration. Or try a sprig of holiday greenery tied with a bow and invisibly taped onto the front of the jar. You'll get many rewarding "oohs" and "aahs" from delighted recipients of these original gifts.

BASIC WINE JELLY

2 cups sauterne or rosé wine
3 cups sugar
½ bottle liquid pectin

Pour wine into top of double boiler and add sugar. Mix well and place over rapidly boiling water for about 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from over water and stir pectin in at once. Pour into glasses and seal with paraffin. Yields about five 6 oz. glasses.

SPICED WINE JELLY

2 cups of sherry or port wine
½ bottle liquid pectin
4 whole cloves
2 cups sugar

Mix sugar and wine in saucepan, add whole cloves. Stirring constantly, heat over medium light for 3 minutes. Remove from heat, remove cloves and stir pectin in immediately. Using metal spoon skim off foam and pour promptly into hot, sterilized glasses. Cover immediately with ⅛ inch hot paraffin. Yields 5 or 6 medium size glasses or jars.

MERRY SHERRY JELLY

1 fifth cream sherry
1 bottle liquid pectin (6 oz.)
⅓ cup strained lemon juice
Sprigs of fresh rosemary
7 cups sugar

Combine sherry, lemon juice, sugar and 1 sprig of rosemary in 4 quart saucepan. Bring to full boil, stirring constantly until sugar is completely dissolved. Stir pectin in and return to full boil for 1 minute. Remove from heat and remove rosemary. Pour into hot sterilized jars or glasses. Place a fresh sprig of rosemary in each and seal. Makes 8 cups of merry sherry jelly.
